DIED: 8 DECEMBER 2021

IAF helicopter carrying General Bipin Rawat and 13 others, including his wife, from Sulur airbase in Coimbatore to Wellington in Ooty, crashes in a tea estate; only one officer survives the accident

TN AIR CRASH KILLS CDS

INDIA'S first Chief of Defence Staff General Bipin Rawat, his wife Madhulika and 11 other defence personnel were killed on Wednesday, when the Indian Air Force (IAF) helicopter they were in crashed at Katary near Coonoor in the Nilgiris.

The accident happened when Gen Rawat was headed to the Defence Services Staff College (DSSC), Wellington to address faculty and student officers of the Staff Course. He was flying from the Air Force Station in Sulur, Coimbatore on a state-of-the-art Mi-17V-5 helicopter.

The sole survivor, Group Captain Varun Singh SC, directing staff at DSSC, is being treated at the Military Hospital, Wellington. Wing Commander Prithvi Singh Chauhan, commanding officer of the 109 Helicopter Unit in Sulur air base, was the ill-fated helicoptor's pilot. He, too, died in the crash.

The IAF has ordered an inquiry to ascertain the cause of the accident. It is believed that the pilot's visibility was affected due to the high amount of mist in the area. Sources said the helicopter took off from the Sulur Air Base at 11.45 am and was scheduled to reach the Defence Services Staff Colleges in Wellington at 12.20 pm. The fatal crash happened around 12.10 pm near a residential colony of private tea estate employees at Nanjappachatiram.

Locals said the helicopter was seen flying in a valley from east to west at a low altitude when it seemed to develop a technical snag and attempted a U-turn. It turned north and proceeded about 100 m, caught fire, and rammed a tree before crashing into a hill. Eyewitnesses said two people — the pilot and a person who appeared to be about 55 years old — jumped out of the chopper before it crashed into the tree.

The locals reached these two officers first, and attempted to carry them on woolen blankets before rescue personnel arrived. Reaching the helicopter itself was more challenging as the personnel had to climb higher up the hilly terrain. The spot of the crash was about 500 m from the nearest motorable road — the Coonoor-Mettupalayam National Highway. Fire and rescue workers, along with defence personnel, started operations around 12.45 pm. They went on till 3.25 pm.

Following the accident, vehicles on the Coonoor-Mettupalayam National Highway were stopped and diverted through Kotagiri.

Gen Rawat was an alumnus of St Edward School, Shimla and the National Defence Academy. He assumed office as Chief of Army Staff on December 31, 2016 and was elevated as Chief of Defence Staff on January 1, 2020. He is the first serving service chief to have died this way. A statement put out by the Army called Gen Rawat a visionary. "He was instrumental in creating the foundation of India's joint theatre commands and giving impetus to the increased indigenisation of military equipment, a legacy which will be carried on and strengthened by successive generations."

> Gen Bipin Rawat was an outstanding soldier. A true patriot, he greatly contributed to modernising our armed forces and security apparatus. His insights and perspectives on strategic matters were exceptional

'Saw burning craft fall amid trees'

M SARAVANAN @ Coonoor

EYEWITNESSES to the IAF helicopter crash on Wednesday recounted hearing a loud thud and seeing thick smoke, further reducing visibility in the area amid the mist.

"It was around noon when I heard the sound. I rushed outside my house and saw a helicopter that had got tangled in tree branches falling to the ground with fire blazing. I also heard a few people screaming," P Chandhirakumar, an eyewitness at Nanjappachatiram in Vandicholai panchayat near Coonoor said.

He immediately called his neighbour Sivakumar, who alerted the police. "Outside the chopper, I saw two injured men lying on the ground. I suspect they jumped out of the helicopter. Their clothes were burnt and their faces couldn't be identified either," said A Sivakumar (45), another eyewitness.

He told one of the two injured men not to worry. "While I was talking to one of them, he asked me for pani (water). They used woolen blankets to carry both to the main road, which was nearly 500 m away. Soon, fire and rescue services personnel arrived. He also saw another victim near the chopper.

S Das (62), who lives nearby, said the heat around the area was high. "We heard the sound of tree branches breaking, one person screaming for help, and what sounded like a cylinder burst," he added. Another resident, Shankar, said, "The chopper crashed just 2 m from my house. Luckily, my children and I were out of town. Three other houses near the burnt chopper, too, had no occupants."

RBI chooses growth over inflation, keeps key policy rates unchanged

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

CHOOSING growth over inflation, the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) on Wednesday kept both the repo and reverse repo rates unchanged at 4% and 3.35%, respectively, proving most forecasts of a 15-20% hike in reverse repo rate wrong.

Repo is the interest rate RBI charges from banks for lending money to commercial banks to meet their short-term fund needs, while reverse repo rate is what RBI offers banks for parking their funds with the central bank.

RBI's Monetary Policy Committee (MPC), which determines the central bank's rates required to achieve the inflation target, also maintained its 'accommodative stance as long as necessary to revive and sustain growth on a durable basis'.

The committee acknowledged the immediate inflation risks but expressed hope that inflation would be trending down in the medium term. It predicts inflation to peak in the fourth quarter (at 5.7%) and cool off subsequently.

"CPI inflation is projected at 5.3% for 2021-22 – 5.1% in the third quarter; 5.7% in the fourth quarter, with risks broadly balanced. CPI inflation is then expected to ease to 5% in the first quarter of 2022-23 and stay at 5% in the second quarter," RBI said in its policy statement.

Although the central bank expressed its concern over core inflation, which it said needs to be closely monitored and held in check, the top leadership of the central bank reiterated that the MPC's decision is based on headline inflation and not core inflation.

Core inflation – Consumer Price Index-based inflation excluding food and fuel – remained elevated at 5.9% during September-October. According to the MPC, in order to bring down core inflation, the normalisation of excise duties and VAT alongside measures to address other input cost pressures must be pursued vigorously. P13

GDP growth pegged at 9.5% in FY22

RBI has kept GDP growth projection for FY22 unchanged at 9.5%. According to its estimates, the economy would grow at 6.6% in Q3 and 6% in Q4. Real GDP growth is projected at 17.2% for Q1 and 7.8% for Q2 of FY23

SKM accepts fresh govt proposal, may end stir

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

THE Samyukt Kisan Morcha (SKM), an umbrella body of protesting farmer unions, on Wednesday accepted the Centre's revised proposal in-principle but a decision on whether to call off the stir will be taken on Thursday. According to sources, the SKM is awaiting a formal communication from the government on its official letterhead,

Earlier in the day, the five-member committee constituted by SKM met at the Singhu border to discuss the government's revised proposal accepting most of the farmers' demands to end their year-long stir. The fresh proposal was discussed in detail in the meeting and a consensus was reached to accept it, said Harinder Singh Lakhowal, general secretary, BKU (Lakhowal Group) Punjab. On whether the government has accepted all the pending demands of the farmers including the contentious MSP issue, Lakhowal said the main issues seem to have been addressed but the full picture will be clear only after the Centre sends an official letter.

The farmers had not accepted the earlier proposal sent by the Union home ministry following which the Centre revised the proposal.

"We are in agreement with the government regarding our demands. A consensus has been reached on the fresh proposal. However, no decision has been taken yet on calling off the agitation," said Gurnam Singh Chaduni, president, BKU (Chaduni group).

Farmer leader Shiv Kumar Kakka said, "We are hopeful. Things are progressing and moving forward."

Another farmer leader, Yudhvir Singh, said, "The ball is now in the government's court and a final decision will be taken tomorrow."

Ishad mangoes, Kumta onions, Bhatkal jasmine start journey towards GI tag

SUBHASH CHANDRA NS @ Karwar

THEY are unique, popular and are grown in small areas for the last several centuries. Delicious Ishad mangoes from Ankola, sweet onions from Kumta, betel leaves from Honnavar and fragrant jasmine from Bhatkal are all set to get geographical indicator (GI) tags as the Horticulture Department has started the process.

The GI tags will catapult them to international fame and recognition, helping local farmers along the way. "We have started the process to get GI tags for these crops. We have collected the required data to be furnished to the Directorate of GI, based in Chennai," said Satish, Deputy Director, Department of Horticulture, Karwar.

"The sweet onion does not have the pungent smell associated with other types of onions. Of late, there has been a demand from far-off places. You cannot miss this onion tied in bunches. It is a perfect crop to be get the GI tag," said SV Hittalamani, former director of the Horticulture Department.

"Black Ishad mango from Ankola is tasty and pulpy. Earlier, it used to be canned and exported. We hope to revive its past glory," said Satish.

The Honnavar betel leaf, known as the queen leaf, is grown only in a few pockets of the taluk. "It is being cultivated for over 500 years. It was said to be patronised by the famous queen Chennabhaira Devi, who is also known as Pepper Queen," he said. P7

NEP IMPLEMENTATION CASUAL, UNPLANNED, SAY STUDENTS

Allege they were not given choice of open elective; claim there's a lack of teachers

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

FIRST-year degree college students from across Bengaluru sat in protest on Wednesday, against what they alleged was the faulty implementation of the National Education Policy 2020. They complained that while the NEP had been put in place, there were a number of glitches, like a shortage of teachers for classes mandated by the new policy, lack of syllabus for open electives, and also limited choice of elective subjects.

Students said they were not given a choice of open elective, but offered the electives the college wanted them to opt for. There was also a lack of teachers for elective subjects, and classes on digital fluency, health and wellness, and even compulsory yoga are not being held. Karnataka prides itself on being the first state to implement the policy in higher education, starting with first-year students. The protest, at Mysore Bank Circle in Bengaluru, was held under the aegis of the All India Save Education Committee, which is leading a nationwide protest, and All India Democratic Students' Organisation.

First-year degree students from across Bengaluru stage a protest against faulty implementation of the National Education Policy 2020 | EXPRESS

Students from a government college in the city told TNIE that they are worried, since the end-of-semester examinations are nearing. Lax implementation has led to a casual attitude and irregular attendance, they said.

"We are not allowed to choose the elective we want," said a BCom student who wanted to opt for journalism, but was asked to pick the elective recommended by the college. This was not her case alone -- other students too confirmed that they were not given the autonomy to select their electives, citing a lack of teachers. "Only if 20 students opt for a particular course will it be offered as an open elective," said another student. Rajashekar, state president of All India Save Education Committee, told TNIE that with the Covid-19 pandemic disrupting education, the government should have been sensitive about restarting the learning process properly. Additionally, there is an excess of 2.8 lakh students who passed Pre-University after examinations were cancelled.

"The government should have ideally created infrastructure and appointed more lecturers for 50 per cent more students in college. Instead, the number of compulsory core subjects are reduced from three to two, and guest faculty is also not appointed," he added.

GETTING READY TO PARTY

Travel bug beats the Covid bug

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

DESPITE the rising Covid cases and fear of Omicron, the travel bug among people has not taken a beating.

Bookings for Christmas and New Year's Eve parties have already started. This time, people are not just planning holidays for the last 5-6 days of the year (December 25- 31), but have been booking for holidays from as early as December 10.

Unlike earlier, when people preferred travelling to lesser-known places, this time they are looking at known places, from where one can leave immediately in case of an emergency. Bookings at home stays, resorts and hotels on the outskirts of Bengaluru, Chikkamagaluru, Kodagu and Mysuru have increased. Many are already full.

Tourism Department officials said travel started in October and bookings have improved now. "People were tied up the entire last year and early this year. They look at this as an escape, break-the-barrier trip," said a senior official.

Karnataka State Tourism Development Corporation Managing Director Vijay Sharma said bookings to all types of destinations, like Hampi, Kodagu and Nandi Hills, are seeing a rise. October to February was good last year year and the expectations are high this time too, he added.

Jungle Lodges and Resorts Managing Director Manoj Kumar said the money collected through advanced bookings for December 19 to January 2 is already around Rs 4 crore.

But a tour operator from a reputed booking firm said, "Earlier, we earned a good amount during this season. But this time people are booking directly as hotel, resort and property owners are offering good discounts." The winter session of the legislature in Belagavi from December 13 has seen increased bookings in North Karnataka destinations. A government forest guest-house manager said, "Bookings are up in Bheemgad, Kali, Anshi, Castle Rock, Kulgi Nature Camp, Ganeshgudi and Joida. To make way for politicians, party workers and other officials, bookings of many tourists have been cancelled."

Overall, the University of Agricultural Sciences, Bengaluru, has been ranked sixth at the national level, which is a big jump, as it previously stood 18th overall in the national rankings. ENS

Who'll fix sewage pipe: HBR residents

DONNA EVA @ Bengaluru

DESPITE multiple complaints made to the authorities, things haven't improved for the residents of HBR Layout, who have had to deal with a leaking sewage pipe with no relief, as local authorities alternate between playing the blame game and postponing work.

After complaints were made to rectify a leak in a newly-built chamber, the Wastewater Management division (WWM) of BWSSB only dumped debris and mud on to the area, allege residents. "Debris and mud has been dumped multiple times over the leak, however, no efforts have been made to study what caused the leak in the fist place, and how to fix it," said George K X, former president of the HBR Layout Residents Welfare Association (HBRRWA).

A new chamber had been built, but a leak emerged, with sewage pooling close to the nearby storm water drain (SWD). To build the chamber, part of the SWD wall and nearby road had also been demolished, leaving residents worried.

As of now, the previously exposed chamber has been completely buried under debris and mud, with part of the road rebuilt just with mud that was dumped overnight. "They are saying that the leak was fixed overnight, but we checked CCTV footage and enquired with people living on the road. No one had seen them come and fix the leak," alleged George.

Manjunath Miraganje, WWM Assistant Executive Engineer for the area, told TNIE, "There is a minor leakage in the chamber, but we can only fix it once BBMP rebuilds the wall and fills the road. If we fix the problem beforehand, then whatever excavation BBMP does while rebuilding (the wall), might again lead to another leak. We are waiting for BBMP to finish their work."

However, according to residents, BBMP refused to undertake the work because of the stagnant pool of water that was still present at the area caused by the leak. Due to this, residents are concerned for their safety, as the road has turned into a precarious slope and the smell of the stagnant water has led to health concerns being raised.

Eggs with midday meal: Study on kids' health

PEARL MARIA D'SOUZA @ Bengaluru

ARE food patterns at home changing, with eggs and bananas being included in midday meals? Are students attending school more regularly? A detailed analysis is being done on these and other parameters that will check the outcome of including eggs in midday meal programmes.

UNICEF, Tata Trust, nutrition experts are all on board with the education department and Karnataka State Rural Development and Panchayat Raj University, Gadag, which is holding a study on the exit outcomes or gains by introducing eggs in midday meals.

A 10-day baseline study was started on Monday. Yadgir, an intervention district, is being checked against Gadag, a non-intervention district, in a five-and-half month 'impact assessment' study that will look into three aspects -- nutritional attainment, behavioural changes and administrative aspects.

Exit outcomes -- be it gains in terms of attendance, haemoglobin levels or change in nutritional habits -- will be studied among 9,000 students from 30 schools in Yadgir, and another 30 schools in a district where eggs are not served with midday meals.

Midway through the disbursal of 46 eggs to students at the rate of two eggs a week for 165 days, a midline study expected in January will be held, where course corrections in administration, would be made for effective implementation, said sources. The study will include tracking height, weight, and nutritional status of students, among other factors.

PU mid-term examinations begin today

ENS @Bengaluru

STUDENTS of PUC II will start their mid-term examinations on Thursday, with History and Physics in the morning session. The PUC I mid-term examinations are also being held simultaneously from December 9 to 23.

For PUC II students, the deputy directors in each district will provide the question papers to each college via the nodal centres. Evaluation will be done by lecturers in their own colleges under the supervision of the principal. The results will be uploaded on the SATS portal in 15 working days of the exam. The principal will be responsible for any mistakes in the evaluation process. Similarly, PUC I mid-term exam will be held at the college level and results will be updated on the SATS portal.

In a document accessed by TNIE, the Deputy Director of PU Education, Bengaluru Urban district, has on Wednesday allowed students who have tested positive for Covid, or are primary contacts, to be exempted from taking the mid-term examination.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

09th December : I have been talking about the Moon. We all think it has a pronounced effect on human behaviour. It would be astonishing if it didn't. However, a hundred scientific studies have failed to come up with decisive evidence. I think that's probably because a lot of scientists are biased – some in favour of a Lunar effect, others against. It's all most confusing!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Whatever complaints and grumbles you have, you would be well advised to take advantage of what is, in fact, a highly favourable period. A point which you could find reassuring is that you may soon be able to review a financial commitment. If you want out, then so be it! Artistic and athletic Ariens should be aiming for the top.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
Why do people expect you to be a tower of strength? Perhaps it's because you always maintain such a cool exterior in crisis situations. Now, however, you should take the lead in questioning previously accepted arrangements. You can undo what was done or decided ten months or even ten years ago.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Once in a while one particular sign of the zodiac is singled out for special treatment. This time it's you who is basking under extraordi-narily benevolent influences, so it would be churlish indeed not to recognise your good fortune. There's one snag, though - partners are in control, so you will have to play by their rules.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
There is still little change in the overall pattern, so circumstances which have prevailed so far look set to continue. The most positive outcome of current contradictory pressures is that you will act with great insight and determination, refusing to compromise in your never-ending quest for the truth.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
After a relatively busy morning, your attention may shift to personal relationships. What does a particular person want from you? And what do you need from them? These are the questions that must be answered. The Moon's gentle movement through fortunate regions of your chart can only do you - and partners - good.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
It may now be clear that someone, probably at work, is not going to give in as easily as you had imagined. At times like these, you must understand that even opposition and criticism can be turned to your advantage if you listen to the core of truth that lies at the heart of other people's comments.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Even though it would be foolish to pretend that life is completely stress-free, you are currently in a relaxed phase between two periods of tension and friction. This is why you should be working to resolve and settle all outstanding disputes while you have the chance. Remember they call your sign the peace-maker.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
There is little in your solar chart to indicate violent upheavals in your personal life just now. In fact, you seem to be doing quite well at expressing all your needs, hopes and aspirations, getting on top of worldly and material issues. By the afternoon, you'll be in a mood to make definite, businesslike choices.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
If the atmosphere becomes strained it is because partners' aspirations are out of step with yours. Take notice of personal tensions now, because otherwise unforeseen disputes could mar the weekend. If there is a source of argument it will be money, so try to be certain who is paying for what - and how much they owe!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
An unusual amount of planetary activity affecting the region of your horoscope associated with health, suggests you should pay more attention to your physical fitness. Astrology deals in preventative medicine, so get yourself in shape. And remember that, in this case, it is your emotional well-being which counts for most.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
There is no way in which what happens now will be a repeat performance of similar events in recent times. Despite your initial forebodings, you are entering a period which in many respects represents a complete break with the past. Over the next two days the winds of change will blow through your spiritual life.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Don't worry if the hopes of reaching a particular agreement seem to be slipping out of your grasp. A brief pause is necessary if you are to review your own arrangements, rejecting anything which is now thoroughly old-fashioned and out-of-date. Professional Pisceans seem to be popular, and that's good news if you're after a new job.

WILL DECIDE ON NEW COVID-19 GUIDELINES TODAY, SAYS BOMMAI

A few districts have reported clusters but there is no need to panic, says CM

AMID increasing Covid cases and Omicron fears, the Karnataka government will decide on new guidelines at the cabinet meeting on Thursday, said Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai here on Wednesday.

Asked if stricter guidelines would be imposed, Bommai said, "A few districts have reported a higher number of clusters, but overall, Covid cases are under control. The central government too has issued certain guidelines. We will decide what best can be done."

Revenue Minister R Ashoka said the cabinet meeting will discuss the measures to be taken to contain the spread of the virus. "The situation is under control now. We are not keen on imposing a lockdown or even a night curfew. Such restrictions will hamper businesses and affect livelihoods," he said. Asked about schools going back to online classes from offline, he said there is no such proposal. But, the cabinet will discuss and get more clarity, he added.

On Wednesday, Bommai held a meeting with Chief Secretary P Ravikumar, Additional Chief Secretary (Finance) ISN Prasad, CM's Principal Secretary Manjunath Prasad, BBMP Chief Commissioner Gaurav Gupta, Revenue Department Principal Secretary Tushar Girinath and others.

Bommai said he obtained details on clusters, Covid situation in districts, tracing of primary and secondary contacts and protocols being followed in other countries to manage Omicron cases.

He also got details of funds needed to tackle Covid till March 2022. A statement from the Chief Minister's Office stated that the expenditure incurred by the BBMP, Health and Revenue departments for oxygen units, labs and other essentials during the second wave and clearance of pending bills were also discussed at the meeting.

Bommai appealed to the people, especially parents of students, not to panic though cases are emerging in schools and hostels. "Children have to be cautious and schools and colleges should follow Covid norms strictly," he said. He appealed to parents and teachers to take the double dose of Covid vaccine if they have not done it yet.

Int'l flyers to be isolated at Bowring, Wenlock hosps

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru:

THE Karnataka government has designated two state-run government hospitals to isolate international passengers who test RT-PCR positive at the airport. Those testing positive at Bengaluru International Airport will be shifted to Bowring and Lady Curzon Hospital, while those testing positive at Mangaluru International Airport will be shifted to Wenlock Hospital in Mangaluru.

A circular from the health department said the airport authorities shall ensure that facilities are available to shift positive cases for further treatment at the designated hospitals.

Meanwhile, district health authorities have been asked to earmark a separate block with a sufficient number of beds and other facilities for isolation, treatment and management of Covid-19. Those who test Omicron-positive are shifted to a separate isolated treatment block or ward within the same facility.

Doctor's contacts test negative

CHETANA BELAGERE @ Bengaluru

FIVE contacts of a Bengaluru doctor who tested positive for the Omicron variant of Covid-19 are clear of the infection. They tested negative and will be discharged on Thursday. A senior doctor from Bowring and Lady Curzon Hospital, where they were in isolation, said, "They were tested twice and both times came negative for Covid. They have no symptoms at present," he said The doctor also said that genome sequencing of samples indicated that they did not have the Covid variant of Omicron. However, the doctor will continue to stay in hospital, though he has no symptoms of the illness. A repeat test on Wednesday came positive for Covid-19, the source said.

5-star hotel staff cleared

BBMP health officials said samples of the five-star hotel staff, who were contacts of the German national who tested positive, came negative. However, a close watch is being kept on all 10 primary and 22 secondary contacts of the positive person.

One Covid case in Mount Carmel

BENGALURU: One student of Mount Carmel Pre-University College has tested positive, an official from the Pre-University Education Department has confirmed. The student is said to have visited the college earlier in the day to collect her hall ticket, though she didn't come in contact with other students, as per a source. The student has one primary contact who also tested positive. ENS

50 pupils, 3 staffers test +ve in a week

SHIVAMOGGA: At a time when schools and colleges are witnessing a spurt in Covid-19 cases, 50 students and three staffers tested positive from December 1 to 7 in Shivamogga. Of them, 42 are from a cluster at a private nursing college, and the rest are from the taluks of Sagar, Thirthahalli and others, District Health Officer (DHO) Dr Rajesh Suragihalli told TNIE. ENS

2 city residents fly in from Germany, test +ve

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

TWO Bengalureans who landed at Kempegowda International Airport on a Lufthansa flight from Germany in the early hours of Wednesday, tested positive for Covid-19.

One is a 60-year-old male who travelled from Germany, and the other a 43-year-old male who came from Sweden via Germany. Both are double vaccinated, asymptomatic and admitted to Bowring Hospital, now a designated hospital for Omicron-positive patients.

According to health and BBMP officials, the two men arrived in Bengaluru with a negative test report, but tested positive on arrival. "We are checking how they contracted the virus. These two are breakthrough infection cases. We are talking to them and getting details to understand how they could have contracted the virus. Since they are international travellers, their samples were sent for genome sequencing," BBMP Chief Commissioner Gaurav Gupta said.

BBMP Special Commissioner, Health, Dr K V Trilok Chandra said a close watch is being kept on them.

Sources in the Covid War Room told TNIE that the two are residents of Bengaluru -- one is from West Zone, and the other from Bommanahalli.

They were among 366 passengers on board the Lufthansa flight. Airport officials said the test reports of the other passengers on board were negative, but a close watch will be kept, and as per procedure, they will be tested again.

"Earlier in the day, when samples were taken on arrival, one passenger had left the airport even before his reports came. There was panic among health officials and when his details were traced, it was found that he had given the wrong domicile address. This alerted us and we intensified our search, found him and immediately rushed him to Bowring Hospital for isolation," said a health official.

Caste, cash cast shadow over Council polls

Voters may look beyond parties to pick candidates; Bengaluru Urban under watch for money flow

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @Bengaluru

WITH the countdown beginning for the December 10 Legislative Council polls to 25 MLC seats from 20 local body constituencies, the caste and cash factors will most likely influence the outcomes in many seats. Also, some videos of inducements being offered have gone viral on social media.

The Bengaluru Urban seat will be closely watched where an FIR has already been filed against Congress candidate Yousuf Sharief. He is the richest among the 90 candidates in fray across the state with declared assets Rs 1,744 crore. Since the number of voters is low at 2,073, the 'price' for each vote may go beyond Rs 1 lakh, sources say.

In Tumakuru, a candidate reached out to the voters with Rs 25,000 per vote, prompting rivals to raise the stakes. Interestingly, a candidate has run into a financial crunch after he got exhausted of cash. He is now trying to raise funds against his immovable properties, sources informed TNIE.

There have also been several claims that a candidate in Mandya gave out up to Rs 75,000 per vote. Interestingly, those who had allegedly received less, made it an issue claiming that the candidate was differentiating between voters. Another candidate in Kolar too had reportedly given Rs 75,000 per vote.

Apart from money, caste is also likely to play a key role as a section of the electorate prefer their community candidates over others. "Since there is a preferential marking of votes, their second option will be those who give cash. If none of the candidates get 50 per cent of the polled votes plus one in the first preferential marking, then the second preferential votes will be taken for counting," observed Bhanuprakash, a political party worker.

With the Vokkaligara Sangha elections slated to be held on December 12, the community members, mostly gram panchayat members, are likely to come together to vote for their community candidate in the MLC polls too, especially in the Old Mysuru region. "Since we have a lone Vokkaliga candidate, he will be our first preference and the party comes next", remarked Narase Gowda of JDS.

Interestingly, the BJP candidate in Tumakuru, N Lokesh, a former BBMP corporator, has changed his name to N Lokesh Gowda to identify with the community. The reciprocal effect of other communities getting polarised cannot be ruled out, remarked Hanmath Gowda, a Congress supporter.

Deve Gowda won't abandon Tumakuru

In order to send a message to the voters that he will not leave them in the lurch after the MLC polls, former Prime Minister H D Deve Gowda had declared that he will contest the 2024 Lok Sabha polls from Tumakuru where he had lost in 2019.

The electorate will not fall prey to inducements by some people. They will think beyond even the party to elect our candidate Dinesh Gooligowda who is more accessible to them

AFTER the severe drubbing in the 2019 Lok Sabha elections, the JDS has taken the Legislative Council polls in the district as a prestige issue. Though all three prominent political parties — the Congress, JDS and BJP — have fielded candidates, the contest is mostly between arch rivals JDS and Congress.

The regional party, with seven sitting MLAs, is working hard in the Vokkaliga stronghold as a victory in Mandya will prove that the community still solidly backs former chief minister H D Kumaraswamy. The victory of party nominee Appaji Gowda will help keep its flock together as many are ready to jump ship and join the Congress.

The JDS youth wing chief, Nikhil Kumaraswamy, is campaigning extensively in the district. The party is also banking on Kumaraswamy's commitment to the people of Mandya, the farming community and the special funds he had released for the development of Mandya.

Meanwhile, the BJP, which created history with Sports Minister K C Narayana Gowda winning the byelections from KR Pet constituency for the first time, is claiming that there are a decent number of gram panchayat members who are supporting their candidate Bookahalli Manju.

On the other hand, the Congress has fielded a novice, Dinesh Guligowda, who was an Officer on Special Duty (OSD) to Co-operation Minister S T Somashekar. Senior leaders N Cheluvarayaswamy, P M Narendraswamy and others, who turned the tables in favour of Sumalatha Ambareesh in the Lok Sabha elections against her rival Nikhil Kumaraswamy, are doing the spadework to win over fence-sitters and push the JDS to the wall.

What worries the Congress is the tactical understanding between JDS-BJP and transfer of BJP's second preference votes to the JDS.

'Friendly deals' over politics

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

IT seems party affiliations don't matter for leaders as far as the upcoming Council polls are concerned. A case in point is former JDS MLA Kona Reddy, who had openly campaigned in Dharwad for Congress candidate and KPCC working president Saleem Ahmed. Though he had to face criticism, Kona Reddy remained unfazed. "Of course I had supported Saleem cent per cent, as secular forces should unite together. The decision was taken after consulting our party workers and also the Dharwad, Gadag and Haveri JDS presidents. Our party's 1,000 workers will help the Congress candidate secure victory," Reddy told TNIE over phone.

Similarly, in Chikkamagaluru, JDS MLC Bhoje Gowda has supported the BJP candidate and Deputy Chairman in the Council, M K Pranesh. In Tumakuru, BJP Lok Sabha member G S Basavaraju and former MLA Kiran Kumar extended support to Congress candidate Rajendra, son of former MLA K N Rajanna.

"District minister J C Madhuswamy has seemingly ensured the victory of the BJP candidate already," Kiran sarcastically had remarked recently. Within the party both the leaders have been waging a cold war as Kiran was overlooked for the party ticket which went to Madhuswamy in 2018 polls from Chikkanayakanahalli Assembly seat.

Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai addressing party workers at Kinaye village

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai held separate meetings in Belagavi on Tuesday with MLAs and MPs from the region to take stock of the preparedness for the December 10 MLC election, disclosed Council member Laxman Savadi.

At a press conference on Wednesday, Savadi said the CM also expressed his wish to see all legislators from North Karnataka attend the 10-day session in Belagavi where discussions on crop loss and irrigation projects are expected to be taken up.

"The BJP has only one house with one door while the Congress has one house and three doors. Congress senior leaders Mallikarjun Kharge, former CM Siddaramaiah and KPCC president D K Shivakumar are the three doors," he remarked.

While denying reports that Independent candidate Lakhan Jarkiholi was a BJP rebel, Savadi said Lakhan contested the bypoll to the state assembly from Gokak constituency on a Congress ticket.

Lakhan never had been a BJP member, he said adding that he would have been a BJP rebel only if he was a member of the party.

Video of voters taking oath on photo of gods goes viral

Kolar: A video clip of gram panchayat members taking oath on a photo of Hindu gods has gone viral on social media. The video shows a man administering oath in Telugu to a couple of GP members, who pledged to vote for the BJP candidate from Kolar-Chikkaballapur constituency. However, the place where the video was shot could not be identified. Meanwhile, former Speaker Ramesh Kumar said it is unfortunate that the BJP leaders are taking oath on photos of gods.

CHOPPER CRASH

Mi17-V5 among safest: Veterans

BALA CHAUHAN @Bengaluru

THE Mi-17V5 helicopter with Chief of Defence Staff (CDS) General Bipin Rawat on board crashed 10 minutes before it was to land at Wellington, where the CDS was to address students and faculty members at the Defence Services Staff College.

"The timing of the air crash shows that the helicopter was already in descent mode," said Air Marshal Philip Rajkumar (retd) while discussing the possible reasons for the tragic air crash in which General Rawat, his wife Madhulika Rawat and 11 other were killed in Tamil Nadu on Wednesday.

Ruling out bad weather, the former test pilot and director of Aeronautical Development Agency (ADA) said before taking off from Sulur air base, the pilot would have received weather clearance from Wellington. The Mi17-V5 is part of the Air Headquarters' Communication (Com) Squadron. It is used for flying the President and the Prime Minister.

"This particular helicopter must have been from the Sulur air base, which has an Mi17 unit. The flight duration between Sulur air base and Wellington is around 15 minutes," he added.

A twin-engine chopper of Russian origin, the Mi17-V5 is supposed to be one of the safest helicopters in the world. "It is the latest acquisition and a workhorse of the Indian Air Force (IAF) and has a sound safety record," said Air Marshal BK Pandey (retd).

The IAF veterans said it is difficult to speculate the reasons for the crash and only a Court of Inquiry will be able to establish the cause. When asked whether sabotage could be a reason, Rajkumar said sabotage was a standard term of reference for any Court of Inquiry into such fatal defence accidents.

Meanwhile, sources said some locals saw a ball of fire in the sky and the debris of the helicopter in flames as it fell on the trees. "It is possible that as the helicopter was descending, the pilot may have hit a tree because of the mist. The helicopter fell like a stone and turned into a ball of fire," said a source.

MIX-UP?

GP member hops between BJP and Cong, all in a day

MARX TEJASWI @Shivamogga

IN a curious incident, a woman gram panchayat member, who had identified herself with the Congress, jumped to the BJP in the morning, but went back to her former party the same evening. Purnima, GP member of Arasalu in Hosanagara taluk of Shivamogga district, changed two parties, all in a day.

On the last day of open campaigning for the Council elections on Tuesday, both the BJP and the Congress campaigned extensively. At a campaign held at Ripponpet, Purnima joined the BJP. But, in a dramatic turn of events, she rejoined the Congress in a jiffy.

Even though gram panchayat members do not contest elections on party tickets, they are associated with political parties. Thanks to this, the parties claim that they have loyal voters to elect their candidates as MLCs in the local authorities' constituencies. The gram panchayat members, along with taluk and zilla panchayat members and urban local body members, who are voters for the MLC elections, are invited for campaigns.

At one such meeting, Purnima was welcomed into the BJP in the presence of RDPR Minister K S Eshwarappa.

However, Purnima pleaded innocence. "Since Eswharappa, who is RDPR minister, was attending the meeting, I participated. To my surprise, I was welcomed into the party. Later, our GP president asked why I joined the BJP. I told him that I was unaware that I would be welcomed into the BJP. Later, I joined the Congress the same evening," she said.

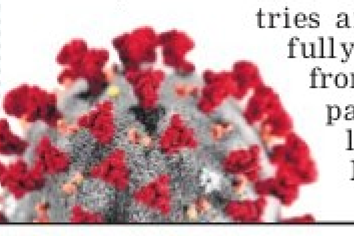
Arasalu GP president Umakar said Purnima joined the BJP unknowingly. "Later, I requested former Congress MLA Belur Gopal Krishna to welcome her back to the party. She was welcomed the same evening," he said.

Enforce rules, don't impose curbs, say industries

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

Unnecessary fear should not be created about spread of the Omicron variant and, while issuing the guidelines, the State Government should look at measures taken in other states. The government should give compensation to people who suffered losses

D K Shivakumar, KPCC chief



WITH the State Cabinet set to discuss measures to be taken to contain the Covid spread, industry leaders have urged the government to enforce the guidelines strictly and not impose more restrictions as industries are yet to fully recover from the impact of the lockdown. The opposition Congress said the government should look at measures taken in other states before issuing any guidelines.

"It is good if they only ensure strict enforcement of the Covid guidelines, including wearing masks and maintaining social distance, as small-scale industries are yet to fully recover from the impact of the lockdown. Nearly 20 per cent of micro and small-scale industries have closed down and now, if they impose more restrictions, another 20 to 30 per cent of them will close," said Karnataka Small Scale Industries Association former president R Raju.

According to Raju, small-scale industries are struggling to break even due to an increase in fuel prices and other factors, and too many restrictions will not be good in such conditions.

I S Prasad of the Federation of Karnataka Chambers of Commerce and Industry (FKCCI) said there is no threat to businesses as 99 per cent of those working in industries are vaccinated. The government is very proactive in taking measures and holding consultations with the industry, he said.

KPCC state president D K Shivakumar said unnecessary fear should not be created about spread of the Omicron variant and, while issuing the guidelines, the State Government should look at measures taken in other states. He said the government should give compensation to people who suffered losses.

After Covid clusters were reported in educational institutions in parts of the state, the government issued guidelines restricting the number of people attending any programme to 500 and directed educational institutions to postpone all programmes till January next year.

Unidentified miscreants attempted to attack notorious rowdy Narayana alias JCB Narayana, who managed to escape. The incident took place in Begur police station limits in Bengaluru on Sunday evening. Narayana, who has dozens of cases against him, was travelling in a car when he was waylaid by a gang of 4-5 armed men.

HC bars 61 'tainted' prosecutors from work

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

DIRECTING the Lokayukta to take an appropriate decision within four months based on an inquiry report, the Karnataka High Court on Wednesday passed an order that 61 assistant public prosecutors/ assistant government pleaders facing disciplinary proceedings should not be allowed to discharge their duties.

A division bench of Chief Justice Ritu Raj Awasthi and Justice Sachin Shankar Magadum passed the order, disposing of two public interest petitions.

The court said that the competent court should proceed with the matter as per law and complete the criminal proceedings expeditiously. However, the correctness of the selection of 197 assistant public prosecutors (APPs)/ assistant government pleaders (AGPs) is left to be decided at an appropriate time, the court added.

IN THE HC

Both the petitions were concerned with the same controversy over the selection of APPs/AGPs in 2012. The petitioners questioned an alleged fraud committed by certain applicants in connivance with the then member-secretary and administrative officer of the Directorate of Prosecution.

Allegations are that forgery, fraud, cheating, etc., were committed and 197 candidates were selected. A notification on their selection was issued on May 16, 2012. The petitioners prayed before the court that judicial fraud was committed which requires the setting up of an SIT.

The state government filed a statement of objections in August 2021, contending that the petitions are not maintainable either in law or facts. It pointed out that an FIR was lodged based on the directions issued on a private complaint. The investigation was completed a chargesheet filed against 61 of the 197 selected candidates on June 12, 2017. A supplementary chargesheet was filed on March 15, 2018 and the accused were brought to book, the government said.

Disciplinary proceedings against the accused APPs/ AGPs were initiated through the Lokayukta. The accused were placed under suspension and not allowed to perform their duties. With these developments, no further direction is required to be issued at this stage, the court said disposing of the petitions.

Implement suggestions on improving PHC conditions, HC tells govt

Bengaluru: The Karnataka High Court disposed of a public interest petition with a direction to the State Government to implement the recommendations of the Karnataka State Legal Services Authority (KSLSA) with regard to setting up of Primary Health Centres (PHCs), providing manpower, medical care facilities, maintaining hygiene and cleanliness and accommodation for staff. The State Government had filed a compliance report in response to the KSLSA report stating that one PHC is required to be established for every 30,000 rural population as per the Indian Public Health Standards. The state has established 2,359 PHCs in the state, which is 822 more than the IPHS guidelines, the government said. In response to this, the petitioner Gurunath Vadde of Bidar prayed the court that the government may be directed to implement the recommendations of the KSLSA report. Accordingly, a division bench of Chief Justice Ritu Raj Awasthi and Justice Sachin Shankar Magadum passed the order. After random inspection of 100 PHCs on the directions of the court, the KSLSA submitted its report recommending that the state government implement the IPHS guidelines as a standard for functioning of PHCs in the state. As per the IPHS, all PHCs must provide 24x7 emergency services. It has recommended a detailed survey of all PHCs in the state for quality assessment. Noting that mere establishment of PHCs without proper infrastructure and manpower may not serve the purpose, the KSLSA has suggested immediate measures for repairing of those PHCs which are in a dilapidated condition and ensure proper hygiene and cleanliness.

MAN SHOT AT OVER TRIVIAL ISSUE, 1 HELD

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

A man was shot at over a trivial issue by two men in Sathanur police station limits in Kanakapura taluk of Ramanagara district. The police have arrested a suspect in connection with the incident.

The accused is identified as Karthik (24). Another accused, Paramesh, is absconding. They have been charged for attempting to murder Pradeep R. All three are residents of Kapanigowdanadoddi village in Uyyamballi in Kanakapura.

Police said that a speeding car had touched Pradeep's dog on Monday evening, and the latter had asked the car driver to drive carefully. The driver had apologised and left the scene. A few hours later, Paramesh called Pradeep over the phone and started abusing him over the issue, leading to an argument.

"After a few minutes, Pradeep was near his friend's house where Paramesh and Karthik came on a bike carrying a single barrel gun. Karthik pointed the gun at Pradeep and shot a bullet, but the latter managed to escape. Another round was fired in the air, while Pradeep ran for his life. A complaint was registered on Tuesday and Karthik was arrested. We have seized the gun and are on the lookout for Paramesh. Old rivalry is the reason for the incident," the Sathanur police added.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Chennai

GOVERNOR RN Ravi, Chief Minister MK Stalin, and leaders of political parties on Wednesday condoled the death of Chief of Army Staff General Bipin Rawat, his wife Madhulika Rawat, and 11 defence personnel in a chopper crash near Coonoor in the Nilgiris district.

"General Bipin Laxman Rawat had served as 26th Chief of Army Staff and rendered his 43 years of dedicated service to the nation. His strategies and his outstanding professional acumen helped India overcome external aggressions during recent times. His able leadership, vast experience, and innovative ideas helped in modernisation of defence sector. His demise is an unfathomable loss for India. India will miss its brave son," the Governor said in his message.

Expressing shock, the Chief Minister, said, "I join the nation in mourning this irreparable loss and offer my heartfelt condolences to the bereaved families. I wish for a speedy recovery of Group Captain Varun Singh who is under treatment."

AIADMK coordinator O Panneerselvam and joint coordinator Edappadi K Palaniswami, in a joint statement said the demise of General Bipin Rawat and other defence personnel was an irreparable loss to the nation.

TNCC president KS Alagiri, CPI State secretary R Mutharasan, PMK founder S Ramadoss, MDMK general secretary Vaiko, BJP State unit president K Annamalai, AMMK general secretary TTV Dhinakaran, VK Sasikala, MMK president MH Jawahirullah and others also condoled the deaths.

Air Force lost 43 aircraft, choppers, to crashes

T'Puram: In the backdrop of the latest helicopter crash near Coonoor, which claimed 13 lives including that of Chief of Defence Staff General Bipin Rawat, questions are set to be raised again over the flight-worthiness of some of the Indian Air Force aircraft. For some time, experts have been demanding the replacement of the ageing fleet of choppers, like Cheetah and Chetak, with new Light Utility Helicopters after a string of crashes.

Lance Naik from AP killed

D SURENDRA KUMAR @Tirupati

LANCE Naik B Sai Teja (27), the personal security officer to Chief of Defence Staff General Bipin Rawat, from Andhra Pradesh was also among those who lost their lives in the helicopter crash near Coonoor in Tamil Nadu Wednesday.

Sai Teja, who joined the Indian Army in 2013, was from Eguva Regada village of Kurabalakota mandal in Chittoor district. He is survived by wife, a daughter and a son. Indian Army officials conveyed the tragic news of his untimely death to his family members. He last spoke to his wife, Shyamala, and a boy aged four and girl aged two years.

over a video call Wednesday morning, his relatives said.

Sai Teja was from an agriculture family. His father Mohan is farmer and mother Bhuvaneswari is a housewife. His brother Mahesh is also working in the army as a jawan and is currently posted in Sikkim.

Sai Teja shifted his family to SBI Colony in Madanapalle town for the education of his children one year back. After hearing news of his sudden demise, a pal of gloom descended on Eguva Regada village and SBI Colony in Madanapalle town. His parents and relatives left for Tamil Nadu Wednesday night.

Fuel not under GST regime due to fiscal constraints, Centre to HC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Kochi

CENTRE informed the Kerala High Court on Wednesday that the GST Council decided not to bring petrol and diesel under Goods and Services Tax because of the high revenue implications and fiscal constraints induced by Covid.

The court had directed the Central Board of Indirect Taxes and Customs (CBIC) to inform the genuine reason why petroleum products could not be brought under the GST regime. The order was issued on a petition filed by M C Dileepkumar, chairman, Kerala Pradesh Gandhi Darshan Vedhi, challenging the GST Council's decision.

It was a conscious decision of the GST Council as these products yield significant revenue for both the Centre and the states, the CBIC told the court. The Centre and the states are extending stimuli in all areas for the economy to recover from the disruptions caused by Covid. Tax revenues are required to ensure that the socio-economic initiatives undertaken in the larger public interest are not adversely affected, the board said.

The GST Council had been empowered by the Constitution of India under Article 279A to recommend the date on which GST could be levied on petroleum products. Thus, the recommendation to bring the petroleum products under the GST was left to the discretion of the GST Council which is represented by the Centre, states and union territories. It said the recommendations of the council were based on the decisions taken after following the procedure under 279A of the Constitution.

'Increase duty on tobacco to deter consumption'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

PUBLIC health groups, along with economists, have urged the Union Government to increase excise duty on all tobacco products to generate additional revenue, while it may also deter people from consuming such products.

In their appeal to the Union Finance Ministry, they have sought an increase in excise duty on cigarettes, beedies and smokeless tobacco. According to the group, increasing excise on all tobacco products can be a very effective policy measure to address the immediate need to raise revenue by the Centre.

"It will be a winning proposition for generating revenue and reducing tobacco use and related diseases as well as Covid-related comorbidities. The tax revenue from tobacco could significantly contribute to the increased need for resources during the pandemic, including vaccinations and augmenting the health infrastructure," a press release stated. "Making tobacco products unaffordable to children by increasing tax is the best and easy method of deterrent. This needs to be done as tobacco is highly addictive and tobacco companies target children by capitalising on social and legal approval of tobacco as a consumable," said SJ Chander, Convenor of Consortium for Tobacco Free Karnataka.

Economist and former director of Institute of Social and Economic Change Prof RS Deshpande said tobacco is a medically-proven unhealthy substance, and mere persuasion does not help de-addict consumers, especially the youth. "An economic double-edged tool like taxing products could be effectively used as a good deterrent, which will incidentally add to the tax revenue.

Rape at health camp in B'luru comes to light

BENGALURU: A health camp held by an NGO brought to light the case of a 16-year-old girl who was raped by her acquaintance. Though the incident took place a month ago, the girl's mother had not approached the police but had changed her house, fearing the accused may harm her daughter.

Aasra, a city-based NGO, had organised a health check-up camp near the house of the survivor, who works as a baby-sitter at an apartment, on Sunday. During the camp, the volunteers found that the girl had severe stomach ache and suspected sexual assault.

"The girl was taken for a medical test at Bowring Hospital, where doctors confirmed that she was raped. A medico-legal notice was sent to Parappana Agrahara police, who registered a case against Shaju, a youth known to the survivor's family," a senior police officer said. "Whenever it got late, Shaju picked up the survivor from the apartment where she worked and dropped her home. On the night of November 9, he picked her up and took her to an isolated place, where he raped her repeatedly. When her mother called him, he told her his bike had a problem and he would be late. He dropped the girl at a friend's house the next morning. On reaching home, the girl told her mother what had happened. As the accused had threatened to kill her and her family members if she told anyone about the incident, the worried mother shifted to a neighbouring locality," the officer added.

It is also alleged that the accused has video-recorded the incident. ENS

CYCLISTS FOR RIVER CLEANING

RAJMAHENDRAVARAM: A group of seven members of the Nashik Cyclists Foundation has undertaken a Godavari Parikrama Yatra With the twin objective of promoting a unpolluted Godavari river and the importance of cycling for good health reached Rajamahendravaram city Wednesday. The team was given a rousing welcome at Pushkar ghat by Rajamahendravaram-based Godavari Parirakshna Samithi (GPS) chairperson TK Viveswara Reddy. The seven members set off on their yatra from Nashik city in Maharashtra on November 25. The yatra went on the East side of river Godavari and would end at Antarvedi in East Godavari district on Thursday. Later, the journey would resume on the west side of the river and reach Nashik covering a total of nearly 3,000 km. One among the cyclist, 70-year-old Chandrakant Naik said, "Our main aim is to campaign among the masses not to pollute the river and save Godavari. Every day, we are pedalling approximately 100 km."ENS

For GI tag, crop must see centuries of cultivation

THE Bhatkal jasmine is similar to the other famous variety from Udupi. "But it is different and is much sought after for pujas. For Bunts and a few other communities, no wedding is complete without the Bhatkal jasmine," he said.

He hoped that the GI tags will transform the fate of the crops as well as farmers. But Hittalamani warned that getting a GI tag is no cakewalk. For any living or non-living thing to get the tag, it must be proved that it has a heritage value and for a crop, it must be shown that it is being grown for centuries. A panel will study the proof submitted and place it before the GI Committee. Only if the committee is convinced that data is accurate will the GI tag be accorded. "Many applications have been pending before the committee for lack of adequate information. Once the GI tag is given, the crop is supported and publicised to give its due recognition. The process is quite lengthy," he added.

GEN RAWAT LEAVES BEHIND VERY BIG BOOTS TO FILL

The Indian Air Force helicopter crash near Coonoor in Tamil Nadu killing the Chief of Defence Staff Gen Bipin Rawat, his wife Madhulika and 11 other armed forces personnel can be categorised as the worst in Indian military history. For, he is the highest ranking military officer, as head of the three defence services, to die in such a manner. There have been at least two previous crashes in which senior generals of the Army have died. In 1963, Lt Gen Daulat Singh, Western Army Commander, and five others died when their Alouette helicopter went down near Poonch. Thirty years later in 1993, Eastern Army Commander Lt Gen Jameel Mahmood and seven others were killed when they were returning from an official visit to Bhutan in a chopper.

The IAF's Mi-17V-5 helicopter carrying Gen Rawat and others is a modern, multi-role medium lift aircraft equipped with state-of-the-art avionics and navigation systems. It has an onboard weather radar and an autopilot with advanced night flying capabilities. How such a capable aircraft could go down, due to pilot error or a mechanical failure, will be ascertained only in the court of inquiry but the fact that India's military is hobbled by lack of funds resulting in ageing weapons, equipment, hardware and poor-maintenance standards was underlined in a Comptroller and Auditor General report tabled in Parliament in September last year. The national auditor criticised the defence ministry and the IAF for inordinate delays in the upgradation of Mi-17 helicopters, saying the choppers were flying with limited capability and compromising operational preparedness. The Mi-series helicopters, the same in which Gen Rawat and the others were flying, is the mainstay of the Air Force's fleet and any depletion severely affects the IAF's combat abilities.

Gen Rawat's death will temporarily hit the Indian military's ambitious attempt to integrate the Army, Navy and the Air Force into a well-oiled and better-coordinated fighting machine. Being the first CDS, he was tasked with operationalising the joint theatre commands so that there is better synergy between the three services during war. His replacement has very big boots to fill.

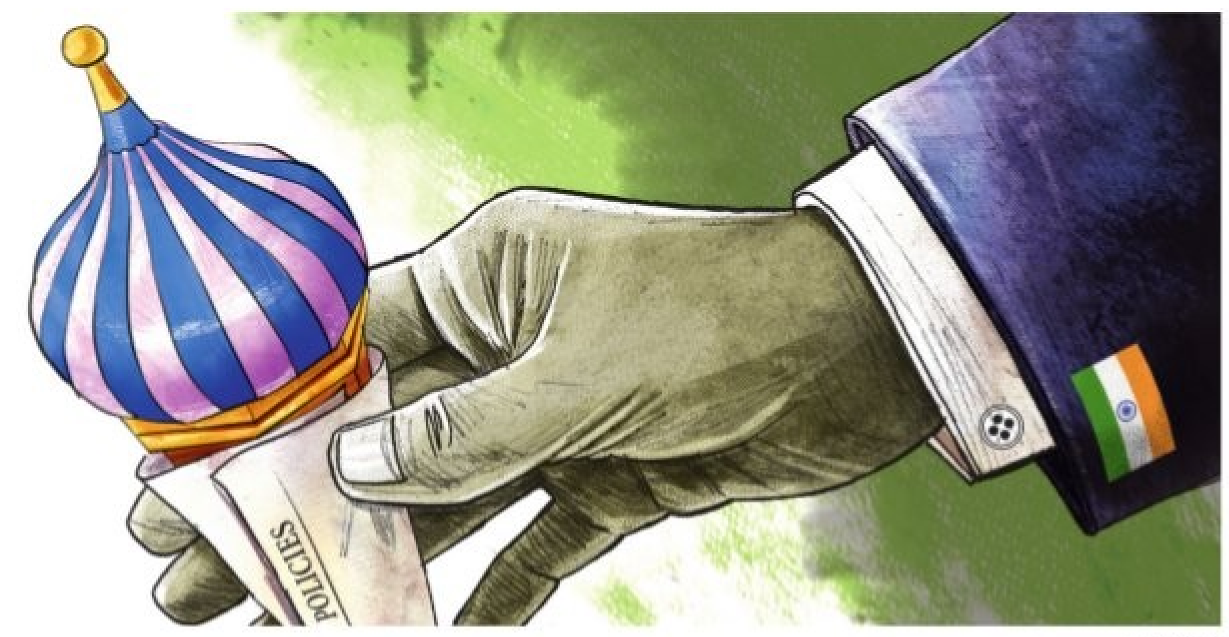
THE MANY FACES OF DEPRIVATION IN ODISHA

The National Multidimensional Poverty Index (MPI) 2021 by NITI Aayog has presented some disturbing facts for Odisha. The think tank's assessment says almost a third of the state's population (about 29.3%) faces deprivation of multiple kinds, such as health, education and basic standard of living, and places it among the top 10 states with a significant share of population living under poverty. As per the MPI, over 37% of Odisha's population is deprived of nutrition. In terms of using cooking fuel and sanitation facilities, Odisha's score is low again. Similarly, a large population has no access to maternal health. What's alarming is that a major chunk of tribal districts have more multidimensional poverty compared to other regions of the state. In districts like Koraput, Nabarangpur and Malkangiri, more than half the population lives below the poverty line. In Kandhamal, Keonjhar, Rayagada, Kalahandi and Mayurbhanj, the scenario is not any better either. Most of these excessively deprived districts formed the erstwhile KBK region that was notorious for socio-economic backwardness. The MPI lays bare the fact that little has changed despite pumping in hundreds of crores of rupees on this region through targeted interventions over the years.

Another curious facet is the deprivation in districts like Keonjhar, Rayagada, Koraput and Mayurbhanj that bear the lion's share of mineral riches. Years of mining development and spending of funds from pools like District Mineral Foundation notwithstanding, critical parameters such as health, education and lifestyle remain at the bottom. This must rankle the BJD government, which has been in power for the last 20 years in the state. It claims to have pulled a large population out of the depths of poverty through a battery of pro-poor and populist policies, but the gross inequity in regional development is surprisingly high. The declining farmers' income as per another survey also points at the problem. The government must not revel in self-congratulation but do some serious introspection instead.

Nations carve out long-term strategic policies based on their circumstances and compulsions. New Delhi seems to be applying geostrategic correctives over its ties with Moscow

REINVENTING THE INDIA-RUSSIA RELATIONSHIP



AMIT BANDRE

N SATHIYA MOORTHY

Distinguished Fellow & Head-Chennai Initiative, Observer Research Foundation

The visit of President Vladimir Putin for the India-Russia annual summit, coupled with the first bilateral 2+2 consultations of foreign and defence ministers, has to be viewed in the larger context. New Delhi seems to be applying geostrategic correctives when it comes to Moscow after in-built and inevitable hiccups began showing up in our nation's post-Cold War strategic preference for the US.

Nations carve out long-term strategic policies based on their circumstances and compulsions. Details follow, and do not precede, such clinical assessments. It's under constant review and course corrections are periodically applied, based on relative expectations and experiences.

India's geopolitical tilt commenced under P V Narasimha Rao during the unprecedented economic crisis, when the US had more to offer than a truncated post-Cold War Russia. The 90s also saw Boris Yeltsin's Russia going back on Soviet commitments. It did not stop with an end to the Kudremukh iron ore project in Karnataka and what amounted to the suspension of the Kudankulam nuclear power project in Tamil Nadu.

Under Yeltsin, not only did Moscow hold back cryogenic engines for the Indian nuclear programme, but also said it needed Washington's say-so to clear it. Indian scientists made the cryogenic engines themselves. New Delhi did not want to take the Washington route to Moscow and stopped with America instead.

Consistency, constancy: Indians should not conclude that the decision now to procure the S-400 missile defence system from Russia aims at keeping Moscow away from the Chinese camp. The intervening American revival of threats of sanctions over the S-400 every now and again should have irked Indian policymakers even more. They still derive comfort from memories of the predictable consistency and constancy of Moscow's India policy, barring the Yeltsin years.

In comparison, the US has been playing hide-and-seek with S-400 sanctions against India, picking it up at will. The US converting the Quad into a white man's club through Quad-2 by keeping India and Japan out, retaining Australia and roping in old ally Britain has left a bad taste. If India cannot count on the Quad for naval support against an aggressive China as the Quad-2 message goes, of what use is the scheme and even the Indo-Pacific construct for New Delhi? Even Quad-3, involving the US, Israel, the UAE and India, is nothing more than a sop, of no great strategic value for New Delhi in the immediate Indian Ocean context.

For India, the US has not proved to be a dependable all-weather friend as Moscow used to be and may continue to be. Citing domestic political compulsions and congressional interference, successive American administrations have placed hurdles in ties with India from time to time. They have also been inconsistent on India's human rights record. Under Prime Minister Narendra Modi, it has also gone beyond the traditional Kashmir issue. India faces no such problems and inconsistencies from Russia.

Land border: India's immediate strategic and security concerns are still centred on the land border, where Russia matters more than the US and the Quad. As defence minister in the Vajpayee government, George Fernandes named China, and not Pakistan, as the nation's main adversary of the future. Yet, he too did not acknowledge that post-Yeltsin Moscow, in that case, would matter more than Washington.

> India's immediate security concerns are still centred on the land border, where Russia matters more than the US and the Quad. ... Strengthening our navy to fend off China's String of Pearls around India is no substitute for improving political ties with ocean and land neighbours

Against this, the Quad is ocean-centric. Strengthening the Navy to fend off China's String of Pearls around India is still no substitute for improving political ties with ocean neighbours as well as land ones. Nor does overextending the Indian naval outreach to Vietnam on the one side and the Gulf-Arab region on the other help stall aggressive Chinese naval expansion if it were to target the Indian coastline.

Even without India and the Quad, the US is bound to check Chinese naval expeditions into the ocean waters off India for its own reasons. It has the Diego Garcia base to handle any such crisis. France, with the largest number of offshore territories for any nation, and Germany, too, have drafted independent Indian Ocean strategies that would have addressed our China concerns without being a part of any of the existing or evolving geostrategic camps targeting the region.

That is not the case with the long-standing border dispute with China, which keeps reminding us of the past by provocative acts of the Doklam and Galwan kind. The sudden US withdrawal from Afghanistan, based on domestic American compulsions and with no thought to the Indian friend's complex regional concerns, is another pointer on which direction the nation's long-term strategic relations should be headed.

If nothing else, India now seems to be moving back to the middle path with respect to the nation's strategic ties with the US and Russia. From now on, American strategic behaviour when it comes to India's interests and concerns may determine the future course of bilateral, rather trilateral, relations, including Russia. But then, Indian policymakers too should be asking themselves if the nation should continue having one toe, if not foot, in every global strategic camp, supposedly targeting the China-Pakistan nexus, and to be considered an undependable ally by each one of them. There is more to strategic alliances than playing partners around circles—and India especially has not equipped itself enough to do so.

SANGAM POETRY AND A JOURNEY TO KURINJI LAND

JAYARAM PODUVAL

Head, Department of Art History, The Maharaja Sayajirao University of Baroda

A COUNTRY OF MANY GODS

Last month, two of my old college friends who had come from the Middle East had a surprise for me. "We are in Bengaluru, why don't you come over?" they asked. Deprived of long journeys for almost two years due to the pandemic, I decided to seize the opportunity and packed my bags. Meeting me at the airport, my friends said, "The next part of the journey is a surprise for you," and instructed the chauffeur to drive towards the south. We drove past the drenched, semi-flooded Bengaluru towards Mysuru and beyond. As the rising sun glanced through the clouds, the hills on the west side of Mysuru came into view. Soon we were passing through the lush green landscape of the hill country.

The visuals created by the lucid verbal imagery in Sangam poetry, which I had read long ago in A K Ramanujan's book, Poems of Love and War (an anthology of the translations of classical Tamil poetry), was right in front of me.

Forest animals walk there and elephants roam. / In the sky's high places thunder rumbles. / But you come alone in the night / Along the narrow paths of snakes and tigers, / O man of the mountain country ... of fruitful hills/ ancient conquests and wide spaces / where the music of waterfalls mingles with bee sounds / as drums with lute-strings. (Poet: Kapilar, Akananuru 318)

I realised I was in the Kurinji land of Tamil Sangam poetry.

Sangam is a collection of literature from South India. A K Ramanujan writes about Sangam literature thus, "In their antiquity and in their contemporaneity, there is not much else in any Indian literature equal to these quiet and dramatic Tamil poems. In their values and stances, they represent a mature classical poetry: passion is balanced by courtesy, transparency by ironies and nuances of design, impersonality by vivid detail, austerity of line by richness of implication" (A K Ramanujan, The Interior Landscape). As Sangam poetry is often identified with Tamil centres such as Madurai and Kanchi, historians hardly used this literature for the study of South India except Tamil Nadu and Kerala to an extent because of the ambiguity of the geographical limit of Sangam cultural region. Elamkulam Kunjan Pillai, who extensively used Sangam literature for building up Kerala history, puts an end to these doubts by referring to Akananuru, where Venkatam, Erumayoor and Tulu land are considered as the northern boundary of the Tamil land. Among this, Venkatam is the present Venkatachalam or Tirumala-Tirupati in Andhra Pradesh and Erumayoor is Mysuru (Eruma (Tamil) = Mahisha (Sanskrit); Ur (Tamil) = village (English). The hills of Mysuru that are south of Tulu Nadu, presently known as Coorg/Kodagu region, is thus the Kurinji land of Sangam poetry.

The poems beautifully infuse the internal emotion of the protagonists with that of the external landscape. For example, one of the poems read thus:

Bigger than earth, certainly higher than the sky, / more unfathomable than the waters is this love for this man / of the mountain slopes where bees make rich honey / from the flowers of Kurinji that has black stalks (Poet: Tevakulattar, Kuruntokai 3)

> When you travel through South India, be it TN, Kerala or Karnataka, you see the landscapes changing drastically, especially if you take an east to west route…. In this Kurinji region of Karnataka, the lavender-coloured flowers have given way to the imported arabica and robusta coffee blossoms

"The poem in the original opens with earth, sky and water, moves through the native elements of the mountain landscape (slopes, bees, Kurinji) and ends with a human feeling, "Love", observes A K Ramanujan (Poems of Love and War).

Interestingly the poems map the landscape of the Sangam region into five categories known as tinais based on the main flower found in that landscape. The five tinais (aintinai) are Kurinji (mountain flower) (mountain region), Mullai (jasmine) (forest region), Marutam (queen's flower) (fertile land), Neytal (water lily) (seashore) and Palai (Indian devil tree also known as saptaparni) (arid region). Various aspects of love life like the first union, separation, anxiety and elopement are all identified with the landscape. The lusher the landscape, the better the chance of union of the lovers. And when the lovers meet, the whole flora and fauna rejoice with them through chattering monkeys, drunken elephants in mirth and gushing waterfalls. The love for the landscape and the vivid description of the Sangam poems is quite close to Kalidasa, however there is no need to suggest any link. Unlike Kalidasa, Sangam poets represent the landscape with anecdotes like in one of the poems on Marutam land, where giggling girls, as they harvest sugarcane, teasingly throw the produce to the merchant caravans on the road, while someone mistakenly sharpens their sickle on a snoozing tortoise. Indeed, a fantastic imagery.

When you travel through South India, be it Tamil Nadu, Kerala or Karnataka, you see the landscapes changing drastically, especially if you take an east to west route. You can observe as the Sangam poets did (not as well as them though), the change in the landscape and fragrance of new flowers. Unfortunately, in this Kurinji land of Karnataka, the lavender-coloured Kurinji flowers have given way to the imported arabica and robusta coffee flowers. Though plantations have altered the landscape, the planters have tried to maintain their intangible cultural heritage. Interestingly, they do share this intangible heritage with north Kerala. Nannan of Ezhimalai (Kannur district, Kerala), who is condemned in Sangam literature as a tyrant, seems to have ruled Kodagu too. The forgotten roots have to be explored and nurtured further.

The distant hills with Kurinji flowers, seen through the mist, still stand upright, unperturbed by the aroma of coffee in the air, like a Kodava hillman waiting for his lover. Standing on that hill and looking west, you may see the eastern boundaries of the country of many gods.

Om Shanti

It is still extremely hard to believe that our first Chief of Defence Staff General Bipin Rawat has died in a helicopter crash in Tamil Nadu. My condolences to the bereaved family. Om Shanti.

Risks of chopper travel

It is disheartening to learn that an IAF helicopter carrying India's foremost military officer crashed near Ooty in Tamil Nadu. The unfortunate incident only exemplifies the inherent risks involved in chopper travel.

Act against ex-cop

The former Pink police officer had wrongly accused an eight-year-old girl of stealing her mobile phone and publicly insulted her (Dec 7). The incident occurred in August and coming up with an apology much later seems to be insincere. The defamation case filed by the child's father should be processed to do justice to the kid who experienced trauma, and the victims should be financially compensated by the government.

Welcome respite

This is with reference to Markets welcome an end to IndiGo promoters' dispute (Dec 8). The bickering has finally been settled amicably. This is a welcome respite for the nation's aviation industry. With many Indian airlines becoming defunct, IndiGo is one of the few exceptions and it is hoped that things will be smooth from now on.

Political killings in Kerala

Kerala is notorious for its political murders for the past many decades. The sad fact is all the killers and those killed hail from poor families. Meanwhile, the leaders and their sons and daughters are well off.

Quality of life for elderly

The arguments in the article Planning for demographic shift towards elderly (Dec 6) are well-articulated. There has been a steady growth in the population of those above 60 years in India since 1961. While the population rose by 12.4% in the last decade, the growth of the elderly population was almost triple at 35.8%. Advancements in medical research and growth in the economy have aided longevity. But life extension alone may not guarantee a better quality of living. As the peak earning period of an adult has shrunk, the necessity to create a corpus to take care of an indeterminate life span, often by postponing one's retirement, has become a frightening reality. Even people protected by social security benefits of the state tend to get ignored by their wards, as they themselves are busy planning for a long life after retirement. In such a scenario, it is the responsibility of governments and NGOs to take care of the elderly and protect their dignity. Only then will the observance of August 21 as World Senior Citizen's Day have real meaning.

Feed Indians first

The Indian government has sent wheat to Afghanistan. It should instead worry more about feeding Indians, millions of whom are below the poverty line.

Court of Inquiry to ascertain what caused crash that killed General Rawat and 12 others, former Air Force pilot feels weather might have caused fatal accident

Rescue teams carry a victim out of the accident site in Coonoor, Tamil Nadu | EXPRESS

MAYANK SINGH & C SHIVAKUMAR @New Delhi/Chennai

THE FATAL crash of the Mi-17 V-5 has taken air force professionals by complete surprise. That's because this is one of the most advanced helicopters in the fleet of the Indian Air Force. To ascertain what happened on Wednesday, every possibility has to be investigated before coming to a conclusion, said air force officers.

"These are the most modern and dependable helicopters India has at present. Their reliability can be easily understood from the fact that these are deployed for even the President and the Prime Minister of our country," said an Indian Air Force officer on the condition of anonymity.

The Mi-17 V-5 is a multi-role medium-lift aircraft which is equipped with state-of-the-art avionics and navigation systems such as on-board weather radar and autopilot. The chopper can carry over five tonnes of load and also has an advanced night-vision equipment and a glass cockpit. The supply of these helicopters from Russia began in 2011 with an initial contract for 80 helicopters. Later, 71 more were bought in batches which were inducted into the force by 2018.

"Indian Air Force follows its standard operating procedures meticulously and everything is checked and confirmed to be fit to fly before a go-ahead is given to fly such a machine," another officer commented.

Talking about the crash, the officer said it has shocked the armed forces. "These are machines and snag can happen sometime. We have begun the Court of Inquiry to ascertain the reason," he said.

Produced by Kazan Helicopters, a subsidiary of Russian Helicopters, Mi-17 V-5 has hardly had one or two emergencies, requiring immediate landing. "Such emergencies could pertain to Tail Rotor failure or both engines failing due to fire. This rarely happens. In the last 30-40 years there may have been one or two cases," says a former air force personnel with extensive flying experience.

The helicopter would have been thoroughly checked before being used to transport VVIPs like General Rawat. In such circumstances, it is unlikely a technical snag caused the crash, the expert said, positing weather conditions as a reason for the mishap.

Usually, during the training of pilots, there is a golden rule for flying in the hills and during cloudy weather. "If you are in clouds, you should be out of the hills and if you are in the hills there should be no clouds around," the former Air Force pilot said. This was the mistake committed during the Mi-17 V-5 crash during the Uttarakhand landslides in 2013 in which 20 lives were lost.

"In the Coonoor crash, if there was an emergency, the pilot would have dropped the speed if visibility was poor. But seeing the impact and crash, it has all been burnt. The chopper seems to have impacted the ground at a high speed. The aircraft usually never falls like a stone," the former pilot said.

Exercise begins to select Gen Rawat's successor

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE demise of Chief of Defence Staff General Bipin Rawat on Wednesday came as a shock, for it was the loss of the senior-most serving military officer of the country who had more than an year to complete his three-year tenure. There were no immediate thoughts of thinking about his successor.

"Armed forces, driven by a strict and streamlined hierarchy, structure themselves in a way that clarity of commands is in-built. But in this case, nobody was even imagining looking for a successor, so soon," said an army officer, who did wish to be named.

Maj Gen SB Asthana (retd) said, "The Chief of Defence Staff is also the Permanent Chairman of the Chiefs of Staff Committee. So logically, the senior most services chief should officiate as the CDS till the time the government selects the incumbent."

The position of CDS, created on 31 December, 2019, is critical and is vested with a whole lot of powers influencing procurement and modernization, promotions, and postings. And, India is continuing with the tense deployment along the Chinese borders and a volatile environment in the neighbourhood.

It won't be an easy exercise as Air Chief ACM VR Chaudhari and Navy Chief Admiral R Hari Kumar have taken charge recently. Army Chief General MM Naravane retires in April. "Succession in the forces is deliberate and done in stages. It's up to the government to select a suitable officer as next CDS," said Maj Gen SB Asthana.

I join fellow citizens in paying tributes to each of those who died while performing their duty. My heartfelt condolences to the bereaved families. Shocked & anguished over their untimely demise

Rahul Gandhi, Congress MP

The tragic demise of CDS Gen Rawat, his wife & armed forces personnel has deeply saddened the country. I extend my heartfelt condolences & prayers to the families in this hour of grief

Uddhav Thackeray, Maharashtra CM

He was a bright cadet & justified our expectations by getting the sword of honour in his course. Next CDS will be chosen from the chiefs of the 3 forces based on seniority

Ex-Army chief General Shankar Roychowdhury

Multi-faceted officer will be remembered also as a great thinker

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

THE untimely demise of Chief of Defence Staff, the senior most Indian military officer, has shocked India and also personnel of the three services.

The accident has shaken the Department of Defence Studies at Chaudhary Charan Singh University in Meerut, where General Bipin Rawat completed his research on 'Role of Media in Armed Forces' and was awarded PhD in 2011.

Dr Harveer Sharma, guide of General Rawat, remembers a keen student who was always open to new ideas. "He met me very briefly but showed interest in doing PhD specifically to understand the drivers of media which can be utilised in improving the image of the army. I am shocked. None imagined this would happen," he said.

For Dr HK Pandey, head of the Defence Studies Department, death of General Rawat is the loss of a thinker. "I am talking of around 12 years back and my impression about him is of a military thinker who had vision and clarity of the direction our armed forces should be moving in. People remember him as a CDS but we remember him as a thinker."

General MM Naravane and the Indian Army expressed grief at the demise of General Rawat. His wife Madhulika was the president of Defence Women Welfare Association.

General Rawat, India's first CDS, assumed charge on January 1, 2020. He was a visionary who initiated far-reaching reforms in Indian military's higher defence organisation, said Indian Army in its stament. He was instrumental in creating the foundation of India's joint theater commands and giving impetus to the increased indigenisation of military equipment, a legacy which will be carried on.

General Rawat was the longest-serving Indian military officer who was the 27th Chief of the Army Staff. He was commissioned in the Fifth Battalion of the Eleven Gorkha Rifles in December 1978, from Indian Military Academy, Dehradun, where he was awarded the 'Sword of Honour'.

He led the surgical strikes in Pakistan and Myanmar other than handling the stand-off with Chian. He had vast experience in high-altitude warfare and counter insurgency operations. He commanded an Infantry battalion, along the LAC in the Eastern Sector, a Rashtriya Rifles Sector and an Infantry Division in the Kashmir Valley, a Corps in the Eastern Theater and the Southern Command. He was also an instructor at Indian Military Academy and Army War College, Mhow in his early years in service.

Academically inclined, he has authored many articles on national security' and leadership, which have been published in various journals.

Most tragic sight, recall rescue men

M SARAVANAN @Coonoor

RECALLING the scene of the accident that killed CDS General Bipin Rawat, Fire and Rescue Services personnel said they had never before seen anything this tragic.

They hardly had a few minutes to rush from the Wellington airbase near Coonoor, where they were deputed in view of the official's scheduled visit, to the accident site. "The helicopter was scheduled to arrive at 12.20 pm. Then, we received a call saying it crashed," recounted C Dhanapani, a fireman attached to the Palladam fire station in Tiruppur.

On reaching the spot, the firemen had to trek up to 500 m, braving fire and smoke to recover the charred bodies. "On reaching the spot, we saw locals trying to rescue the occupants. We were only a few metres away, but it was tough to go near the chopper. We heard what sounded like gunshots."

With the location unfavourable for vehicular movement, fire and rescue personnel stationed the extinguisher at a distance and used a 200-metre long pipe to douse the fire.

Another fireman, M Pandeeswaran, said, "I have never witnessed such a tragic accident in my service in the department. Even though it was hard recovering the bodies from the chopper, we had no choice but to jump into action as they had to be recovered immediately. We carried the bodies 500 m to the main road."

Construction stops at house they wanted to build, relatives fly back to Delhi

VINEET UPADHYAY & ENS @ Dehradun/Bhopal

SAINA village in Uttarakhand and Sohagpur Riyasat in Shahdol district of Madhya Pradesh were united in grief on Weednesday. Late CDS General Bipin Rawat hailed from the village in Uttarakhand's Birmoli Gram Sabha. His wife Madhulika was from the erstwhile royal family of Sohagpur Riyasat. They were married in 1985.

General Rawat was building a house in Silver Heights Colony in Dehradun. 'Bhoomipoojan' was done a week ago by his wife Madhulika. After news of the helicopter crash broke, construction on the site stopped.

Bharat Singh Rawat, a distant uncle of General Rawat, recalls the day when people of the village of celebrated his elevation to the post of CDS. As news of the fatal crash reached the village, gloom descended on the people of the area.

The CDS had visited his village after taking over as the chief of the Indian Army in 2016 and also in 2018. "He told me he wanted to build a house near mine. He said he would request the government to build a motorable road connecting the village," recalled Bharat, who served the Indian Army as a havaldar.

Madhulika's father Kunwar Mrigendra Singh was the Riyasatdar of Sohagpur and also a Congress MLA in 1967 and 1972. General Rawat's brother-in-law Yashvardhan Singh was in Bhopal on Wednesday with her daughter who is taking part in a national-level shooting competition. "The army asked us to reach Delhi urgently. This suggested that something very serious had happened. I and my wife are flying to Delhi from Bhopal," said Singh.

Singh recounted that recently the couple had promised to visit Shahdol in the new year. As fate would have it, that trip is never going to materialise.

Prez cancels Maha events

President Ram Nath Kovind cancelled his scheduled programmes in Maharashtra on Wednesday after news of CDS General Bipin Rawat's helicopter crash broke. He is in Maharashtra on a four-day trip. Maharashtra Governor Bhagat Singh Koshyari also announced cancelling the inauguration of Darbar Hall at Maharashtra Raj Bhavan. President Kovind was scheduled to attend this programme.

Rajya Sabha deadlock continues with 'rivals' sticking to stand

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

AS logjam continues in Rajya Sabha over suspension of 12 MPs, Opposition leaders questioned lack of effort by Leader of the House Piyush Goyal. They pointed out he has not even called a meeting of floor leaders to iron out differences. Several MPs recalled the floor management skills of late Leader of House Arun Jaitley.

Rajya Sabha proceedings have been disrupted since the start of the winter session on November 29 over the suspension of MPs. Sources said that even some BJP MPs want a solution to end the stalemate and that Leader of Opposition Mallikarjun Kharge should speak on behalf of the suspended MPs in the House rather than each member apologising to the House individually.

"This is a collapse of leadership and unbridled arrogance on part of the Leader of the House. The Leader of the House is simply not interested. We are looking at various options but the question of unqualified apology is rejected," said Congress MP Jairam Ramesh. Others remembered Jaitley's personal rapport with leaders of various Opposition parties.

Sonia reiterates stand to support farmer demands

Congress chief Sonia Gandhi on Wednesday said that the farm laws were repealed undemocratically just as their passage last year was pushed through without discussion and the party remains firm in its commitment to stand by the farmers. Addressing the Congress parliamentary party meeting, she said: "Farmer organisations have been protesting against these laws. It is the tenacity of the farmers that has forced an arrogant government to climb down. Let us salute them."

Chinese escalation biggest challenge: Air Force chief

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE chief of Indian Air Force thinks China is the most "significant and long-term challenge" for India's strategic goals. Speaking on Wednesday, Air Chief Marshal VR Chaudhari said China continues to escalate operational preparedness along the Line of Actual Control, while Pakistan is also sprucing up its capabilities.

The IAF chief was speaking on the theme 'India's National Security Dynamics' at the 18th Subroto Mukherjee Seminar organised by the New Delhi-based Centre for Air Power Studies (CAPS). "China's growing imprint will increase contestation and competition in the economic domain. China will further tie us down by keeping us engaged on the unsettled borders. Its aggressive intent is visible with the rapid enhancement of operational infrastructure, in terms of hardened aircraft shelters and additional airfields in the Tibet Autonomous Region," explained ACM Chaudhari.

'40% of new govt jobs to women'

Promise made in 'pink manifesto' of Congress released by Priyanka Gandhi Vadra for UP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Lucknow

Priyanka Gandhi Vadra with women supporters in Lucknow on Wednesday | PTI

FORTY per cent of 20 lakh new government jobs that will be created if the Congress comes to power in Uttar Pradesh will be reserved for women, promises the first-of-its-kind 'pink manifesto' released by party general secretary Priyanka Gandhi Vadra on Wednesday.

Claiming that women-centric announcements made by the Congress for the 2022 assembly polls had unnerved rivals who feared that it would upset caste and religious equations in the battleground of UP, Priyanka asserted that the Congress had announced to allot 40 per cent party tickets to women to make their empowerment a reality on ground. She maintained that Congress gave the country the first woman PM and CM at a time when women's representation in politics was poor in even developed countries.

The leader said her party wanted to create an environment where shackles could be broken with the full participation of women in politics.

Sharing details of the 'pink manifesto', Priyanka said a Congress government in UP will ensure that 50 per cent of ration shops are managed by women. There will be special quota for women in male-dominated departments like transport and 25 per cent of jobs in police force will also be reserved for them. Besides, 40 per cent work under MGNREGS will be prioritised for women.

Organisations having women as 50 per cent of the workforce will get special tax benefits. Free treatment for women for any disease up to ₹10 lakh will also be ensured. Class XII girl students will be provided with smart devices while every girl enrolled in a graduate programme will be given scooty, the manifesto said. There will be cheaper loans for women self help groups. The manifesto promises to bring a law against police if they do not register complaint of rape and violence against women.

Cabinet okays river-linking; to benefit parched Bundelkhand

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

STAYING the course to give the BJP a poll booster ahead of the assembly elections in Uttar Pradesh, the Union Cabinet on Wednesday approved the interlinking of Ken and Betwa rivers. The project aims to address the issue of perennial water scarcity in the Bun delkhand region of UP and MP. The Cabinet also cleared the extension of the Pradhan Mantri Awaas (Grameen) Yojana till 2024.

Briefing the media on the decisions, I&B Minister Anurag Thakur said the central support to the project will be to the tune of ₹39,317 crore — ₹36,290 crore as grant as a loan of ₹3,027 crore — out of the total cost of ₹44,605 crore.

Water from Ken will be transferred to Betwa river through Daudhan Dam, which will be built as part of the project. Besides, a canal will also link the two rivers. "The project will provide an annual irrigation of 10.62 lakh hectare, drinking water supply to a population of about 62 lakh and also generate 103 MW hydropower and 27 MW solar power. The project is proposed to be implemented in eight years," said Thakur.

The project will pave the way for more interlinking of river projects in India and "showcase to the world our ingenuity and vision, a statement said.

The Madhya Pradesh districts of Panna, Tikamgarh, Chhatarpur, Sagar, Damoh, Datia, Vidisha, Shivpuri and Raisen will benefit from the project, while the beneficiary districts in UP will be Banda, Mahoba, Jhansi and Lalitpur.

BJP to shuffle seats of sitting MLAs

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

THE BJP is believed to have revisited its plan to deny tickets to a major chunk of sitting MLAs in UP in order to beat anti-incumbency. Fearing the move could trigger a rebellion in the ranks and cause trouble ahead of the crucial elections, the party is now re-drawing its strategy with shuffling of the seats being contemplated.

According to highly-placed sources, the BJP has charted out a strategy to field the sitting MLAs low on popularity graph from a different seat.

The insiders claimed that an internal statewide survey by the party revealed the electorate at many places was unhappy with the local MLA but still wanted to vote in the name of PM Narendra Modi and CM Yogi Adityanath. "The people are happy with the way Yogi government has worked but complain of non-performance by MLAs," said a BJP leader.

As per the survey, people are not happy with the functioning of about 50 per cent of the 304 sitting MLAs, the sources said. To return to power, the BJP will need to deny ticket to at least 30-40 per cent of the incumbent MLAs. However, at high-level confabulations among top BJP leaders, it emerged that if the SP, BSP and Congress turncoats who had joined the party ahead of 2017 polls were denied tickets, they may challenge the official candidate on a ticket from either a rival party or as Independent.

Hence, the BJP has decided to deny ticket only to those sitting MLAs who will not impact the party's chances if they rebel. The MLAs with a strong clout in their caste base could be shifted to a different seat, claimed a BJP leader.

Nagaland visit blocked, Cong team protests

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Guwahati

ASSAM'S Jorhat administration on Wednesday prevented Congress general secretaries Jitendra Singh and Ajoy Kumar along with MP Gaurav Gogoi from visiting Nagaland citing the "sensitive situation on Assam-Nagaland border areas and apprehension of breach of peace and tranquility in the border areas of Jorhat".

Later, the troika staged a sit-in protest at the Jorhat airport. They had planned to visit Mon in Nagaland to meet the families of 14 civilians killed by the security forces.

In an order, the Jorhat district magistrate said the movement of civilians and others from Assam to Mon had been restricted by Nagaland in view of the prevailing law and order situation in Mon and other bordering districts arising out of the Mon incident.

"We have been sitting on a dharna at Jorhat airport for last three hours. Our only aim is to visit our brothers and sisters in Nagaland and tell them Congress party stands with them at this hour of grief," Gaurav Gogoi said in a tweet.

3 militants killed in Shopian encounter

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

THREE local militants of TRF were killed in an encounter with security forces in south Kashmir's Shopian district on Wednesday while police said 75 vehicles used for militant activities in Jammu and Kashmir have been seized so far.

A police official said acting on specific input, a joint contingent of police, CRPF and army laid siege around the village Check Cholan area of Shopian in the early hours today.

"During the search operation, militants were given repeated opportunities to surrender. However, they turned down the offer and fired indiscriminately on the troops. The fire was returned by the troops and in the ensuing gunfight, which continued till late forenoon, three TRF militants were killed," he said.

The slain militants were identified as Aamir Hussain Ganie, Rayees Ahmed Mir and Haseeb Ahmad Dar, all locals.

Aamir, according to police, had joined militancy in September 2020 while Rayees joined militant ranks in June this year. Police said an AK 74 rifle and two pistols were recovered from the encounter site.

Meanwhile, Police Headquarters accorded sanction under UAPA for seizure of a truck used for militant activities.

96 civilians dead since 2019

As many as 96 civilians have been killed in Jammu and Kashmir after the dilution of Article 370 in 2019. The number of terrorists killed between August 5, 2019 and November 30, 2021 is 366, the Union home ministry informed the Parliament on Wednesday while sharing the latest official data on the matter.

Union Minister of State for Home Nityanand Rai said this in the Parliament while responding to a question by Congress MP Digvijaya Singh.

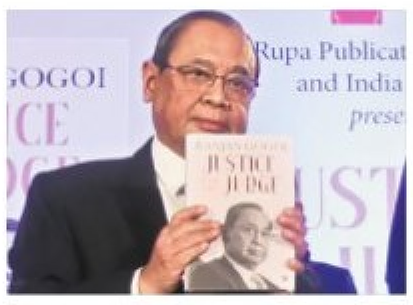
Former CJI Gogoi's tell-all memoir released

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi



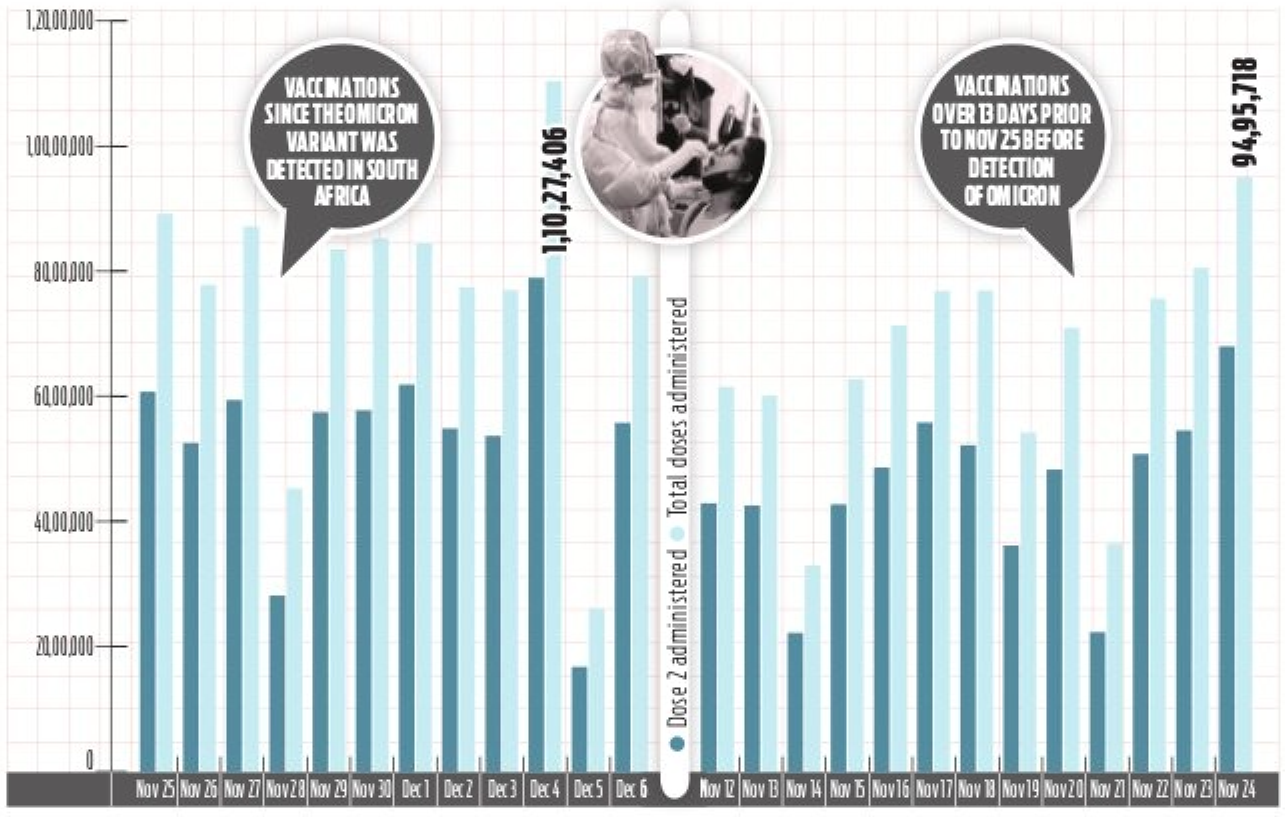
Gogoi at the launch event | PARVEEN NEGI

THE newly released autobiography of former CJI Ranjan Gogoi reveals that the in-house committee, set up to enquire into sexual harassment charges against him was officially approved by all the sitting judges of the Supreme Court.

At the launch of the autobiography titled 'Justice for the Judge' which was released by former CJI S A Bobde, Gogoi said, "This is my journey from a village in Dibrugarh to being a judge in the Supreme Court of India. I have kept the narration factual without keeping much space for justifications."

On the sexual harassment bench, which Justice Gogoi himself headed and then later a panel was formed, he said, "In hindsight I should not have been a judge in the bench. But what do you do if your reputation as a upcoming anchor is destroyed."

Gogoi, now Rajya Sabha MP, also clarified that there is no interference by government in the judiciary.



Omicron draws people to vax centres; 15% rise in 2 weeks

SUMI SUKANYA DUTTA @ New Delhi

THE scientific understanding of how the Omicron variant will impact the course of the Covid pandemic is yet to be known, but it looks like the scare is drawing more people to vaccination centres.

A look at vaccination data shows that there has been a nearly 16 per cent rise in administration of second dose over the past 13 days as compared to the previous 13 days, while there has also been a rise of over 15 per cent in total vaccinations over the same period.

Figures from the CoWIN dashboard show that while 5,87,20,738 dose 2 of the Covid vaccines were administered between November 12 and 24, this number rose to 6,889, 1913 during Novermber 25 and December 7 – marking a 15.9 rise.

During the same period, there was also a rise of about 15.2 per cent in total vaccinations which increased from 8,54,87,769 between November 12-24 to 9,95,54,192 between November 25 and December 7.

Omicron variant of the SARS CoV 2, which was detected by South Africa on November 25 has created ripples across the world mainly due to worries of a fresh surge in infections as it contains over 50 mutations when compared to the delta variant.

Even more worrying, many of the mutations have been seen on spike protein – a part of the virus that it uses to enter human cells – and early evidences do indicate that the variant is far more transmissible than delta and is capable of evading protection offered by vaccinations or treatment by monoclonal antibodies.

Many epidemiologists and health policy makers however believe that despite the reduced efficacies, most existing Covid19 vaccines will continue to offer some degree of protection against the latest mutant, a notion bolstered by a small study from South Africa.

> We started door-to-door vaccination for second dose beneficiaries in early Nov and the detection of Omicron has given further impetus to the initiative. There has been a remarkable rise in vaccinations over last few days, mainly in those who missed their second jab

Bharadwaj to be released today after 3 yrs in jail

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mumbai

THE special NIA court on Wednesday said rights activist and trade unionist Sudha Bharadwaj would be free from Byculla jail on a cash bond of ₹50,000 in the Elgar Parishad case. Earlier the Bombay High Court had granted default bail to Bharadwaj. She will be released three years after her arrest under the provisions of the stringent Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act (UAPA).

The special NIA court said that Bharadwaj needed to remain in the jurisdiction of the court and cannot leave the city without the court's permission. Besides, she has to inform her residential postal address and contact number to the NIA.

The court allowed Bharadwaj to submit the cash surety, which would enable her to walk out of the jail. She is currently lodged at the Byculla prison in Mumbai. As per her lawyer, she will be released from the prison on Thursday morning as bail formalities could not be completed on Wednesday.

The Supreme Court rejected a petition by the NIA, challenging a Bombay High Court order on her bail. The HC on December 1 had said in its order that Bharadwaj, accused of being part of a conspiracy to overthrow the Union government, was entitled to bail.

Special classes to take dropouts back to school

In a bid to prepare dropout children for regular classes and help them cope with academic pressure, Jharkhand Education Project Council (JEPC) will soon conduct special classes for out-of-school students of class 1 to 8 in small groups. The JEPC has already written letters to educational superintendents of all 24 districts, directing them to make arrangements for the classes and ensure availability of teachers for the same. According to official data, nearly 6 lakh out-of-school students have been identified in Jharkhand, of which, around 1.92 lakh children require extra tuitions in order to resume regular classes.

Coalfields Ltd to adopt animals at Biological Park

A Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) worth `36 lakh was signed between Central Coalfields Limited (CCL) and Jharkhand Zoo Authority in Ranchi on Saturday. The CCL will adopt a pair of lions and a pair of tigers at Bhagwan Birsa Biological Park, Ranchi for three years as a part of the company's CSR initiatives. The company will bear all the expenses related to the upkeep and health of the animals for three years. Officials claimed that wildlife protection is a vital aspect of environmental conservation. Adoption of animals will help create awareness among the public regarding the importance of conservation of animals, he said. The Ranchi-based CCL is a subsidiary of Coal India Limited. CCL manages the nationalized coal mines of the Coal Mines Authority, Central division.

ITI students land jobs in Hong Kong

As many as 10 trained students are working abroad after passing out from Industrial Training Institute (ITI), Tamar near Ranchi, which was established in 2012 as a Public Private Partnership (PPP) between Jharkhand government and Tata Steel. Primary objective of the institute, according to officials at Tata Steel, is to provide vocational training to people of the vulnerable classes so that they can get opportunity to earn. As many as 338 youngsters are enrolled and being trained in professional skills like electrical, fitter, turner, welder and mason, thus preventing migration for such skilling opportunities.

Organic substitute for chemical fertilizers

Jharkhand women have started using organic substitute of DAP (Di-ammonium Phosphate), a chemical fertilizer used primarily as a rich nutrient for cultivation of paddy and other crops. The 'dravjivamrit' mixture is made with easily available resources like cow dung and urine, jaggery and soil extracted from white ant mounds and banyan tree roots. Over 30,000 farmers have been using 'dravjivamrit' successfully with paddy and getting good harvest in return. Used mainly in paddy cultivation, 'dravjivamrit' is perfect for any crop to provide full phosphorus nutrition, along with a starter dose of nitrogen and low sulphur.

Scholz sworn in as German chancellor

Center-Left leader becomes country's ninth post-World War II leader as Merkel steps down

BERLIN

OLAF Scholz became Germany's new chancellor on Wednesday after 16 years with Angela Merkel at the helm, pledging his centre-left-led coalition would offer a "new beginning" for Europe's top economy.

Scholz's government takes office with high hopes of modernising Germany and combating climate change but faces the immediate challenge of handling the country's toughest phase yet of the coronavirus pandemic.

Lawmakers voted by 395-303 with six abstentions to elect Scholz — a comfortable majority, though short of the 416 seats his three-party coalition holds in the 736-seat lower house of parliament. That's not unusual when chancellors are elected, and some lawmakers were out sick or in quarantine.

Merkel, who is no longer a member of parliament, looked on from the spectators' gallery as parliament voted. Lawmakers gave her a standing ovation.

Newly-elected German Chancellor Olaf Scholz takes the oath of office | AFP

Scholz, 63, Germany's vice chancellor and finance minister since 2018, brings a wealth of experience and discipline to an untried coalition of his center-left Social Democrats, the environmentalist Greens and the pro-business Free Democrats. The three parties are portraying the combination of former rivals as a progressive alliance that will bring new energy to the country after Merkel's near-record time in office.

"We are venturing a new departure, one that takes up the major challenges of this decade and well beyond that," Scholz said on Tuesday. If the parties succeed, he added, "that is a mandate to be reelected together at the next election."

Scholz, an unflappable and supremely self-confident figure who in the past has displayed an ability to put aside setbacks quickly, cracked a smile as he was elected and as he was formally appointed by President Frank-Walter Steinmeier.

The new chancellor then returned to parliament to be sworn in. Scholz, who has no religious affiliation, omitted the optional phrase "so help me God" from his oath of office, as did Merkel's predecessor, Gerhard Schroeder.

Merkel has said she won't seek another political role. The 67-year-old hasn't disclosed any future plans but said earlier this year that she will take time to read and sleep, "and then let's see where I show up."

Scholz's style has often been likened to Merkel's, although they are from different parties. Like her, he isn't given to public displays of emotion or rousing speeches. Agencies

UK joins US, Australia in boycotting Winter Olympics

LONDON

BRITISH Prime Minister Boris Johnson said on Wednesday that no UK government minister will attend the Beijing Winter Olympics, calling it "effectively" a diplomatic boycott.

Johnson when asked in the House of Commons said he opposed boycotts involving athletes, but Britain would effectively be boycotting the Olympics diplomatically.

"There will be effectively a diplomatic boycott of the Winter Olympics in Beijing," Johnson told lawmakers. "No ministers are expected to attend and no officials."

The White House confirmed on Monday that it was staging a diplomatic boycott of the upcoming Winter Olympics in Beijing to protest Chinese human rights abuses. China has vowed to react with "firm countermeasures."

Australia announced a diplomatic boycott of the 2022 Games earlier on Wednesday. Prime Minister Scott Morrison said it was "In Australia's national interest," and referred to the worsening relations between his country and China — including a spat over Australia's decision to acquire nuclear-powered submarines — as well as human rights concerns.

Western governments, including the US, Australia and Britain, have increasingly criticised Beijing for human rights abuses against its Uyghur minority, which some have called genocide.

They have also spoken out against Beijing's suppression of democratic protests in Hong Kong. Rights groups have called for a full-blown boycott of the Beijing Winter Games.

Beijing's relations with Britain, the US and Australia have plummeted after the Indo-Pacific alliance for greater sharing of defense capabilities was announced. Agencies

Flipkart IPO is on the cards, says Walmart CFO

No timeline yet; says business is certainly on its path to profitability

UMA KANNAN @ Bengaluru

FLIPKART is on its path to profitability and "IPO is very much on the cards", said Walmart Chief Financial Officer (CFO) and Executive Vice President Brett Biggs. However, he did not specify any timeline for it.

"The (Flipkart) business is performing almost exactly like we thought it would. Growth is good. We are going to continue to invest and take opportunities to grow that business, not just in retail but other areas (too)," said Biggs at the Morgan Stanley Global Consumer & Retail conference, which was held recently.

He said the business is certainly on its path to profitability. "We expect that or we wouldn't have gotten into the business," he said.

"An IPO is very much on the cards. With everything else, it is the timing. Is the business exactly where you want? Is the market right? All those things have to figure into what you do with an IPO. IPO and letting our associates have a piece of the business, having it be a more local business in India, all those things are important to us, longer term. Nothing about that has changed," Biggs said.

Aims to make world class supply chain

- Founded in 2007, Flipkart was acquired by US retail giant Walmart in 2018
- In July this year, Flipkart raised $3.6 bn in funding and reached $37.6 bn valuation
- The company has acquired Sasta Sundar and entered the crowded health-tech space with the launch of Flipkart Health+

Founded in 2007, Flipkart was acquired by US retail giant Walmart in 2018. For a few quarters now, the company has been weighing an IPO in the US.

In July this year, the Flipkart Group raised $3.6 billion in funding and the investment values the group at $37.6 billion.

Flipkart had said that it will continue to invest in new categories and leverage made-in-India technology to transform consumer experiences and develop a world-class supply chain. Recently, the company acquired SastaSundar and entered the crowded health-tech space with the launch of Flipkart Health+.

More than 300,000 registered sellers from across the country are on Flipkart's marketplace, and 60% are from Tier 2 cities and beyond. The Group is also a majority shareholder in PhonePe.

Flipkart's rival SoftBank and Alibaba- backed Snapdeal, as per various reports, is eyeing for a $250 million IPO in 2022. According to India Brand Equity Foundation (IBEF), e-commerce in India will reach $99 billion by 2024, growing at a 27% CAGR over 2019-24. It adds that grocery and fashion/apparel will be the key drivers of incremental growth.

With Zomato, Nykaa and Paytm, among other big companies going public this year, 2022 could be a big year for e-commerce giants in India.

ORIENT ELECTRIC

With the potential for margin expansion, as it bridges the wide gap with peers, we expect RoE to remain robust at 26-28% over FY22-24E. With demand scaling back gradually and the upcoming festive season ahead, we believe OEL is best placed to capture this trend with its strong manufacturing and distribution capabilities. We forecast a revenue/EBITDA / adjusted PAT CAGR of 19%/21%/25% over FY21-24E. We maintain our Buy rating.

UBL challenges ₹752 cr CCI penalty before NCLAT

New Delhi: United Breweries Ltd has approached NCLAT against ₹751.8 crore penalty imposed on the company by the fair trade regulator CCI. The Competition Commission of India on September 24, 2021, imposed a fine of ₹751.8 crore for alleged cartelisation in the sale and supply of beer. "The company has now filed an appeal before the National Company Law Appellate Tribunal (NCLAT) against the CCI order dated September 24, 2021," said UBL in a regulatory update. The NCLAT is the appellate authority over the CCI. It hears appeals against any direction issued or decision made or order passed by CCI.

Fairfax sells IIFL Finance shares worth ₹180 cr

New Delhi: Canadian billionaire Prem Watsa-backed Fairfax Group on Wednesday offloaded IIFL Finance shares worth over ₹180 crore through an open market transaction. According to bulk deal data available with NSE, Hamblin Watsa Investment Counsel (HWIC) Asia Fund, an affiliate of Fairfax Financial Holdings, sold 57,76,899 shares of IIFL Finance. The shares were offloaded at ₹312.65 apiece, taking the transaction size to ₹180.61 crore. However, the buyer(s) of the shares couldn't be ascertained immediately.

RBI plans UPI pay for feature phones

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

WITH an aim to promote wider digitisation, the Reserve Bank of India on Wednesday announced that UPI-based digital payment solutions will be launched on feature phones.

Only smartphone users have been availing UPI services for payments so far. India has over 118 crore mobile users, and of which only 74 crore have smartphones.

According to data from the National Payments Corporation of India (NPCI), payments through the UPI reached ₹7.7 lakh crore in October this year through 420 crore transactions.

The RBI said it is important to bring feature phone users into the mainstream digital payments.

Also, the central bank has proposed to launch an 'on-device' wallet in UPI app that will offer a simple process flow by enabling small value transactions. It is found that 50% transactions through UPI were below ₹200. Since low value transactions utilise significant system capacity, it leads to customer inconvenience due to transaction failures because of connectivity issues.

This on-device wallet will conserve banks' system resources without any change in the transaction experience for the user. In addition to this, to further encourage the use of UPI by retail investors, the central bank also proposed to enhance the transaction limit for payments through UPI for Retail Direct Scheme and IPO applications from ₹2 lakh to ₹5 lakh.

Since its availability from January 1, 2019, UPI has also become a popular payment option for Initial Public Offerings (IPOs). The transaction limit in the UPI system was enhanced from ₹1 lakh to ₹2 lakh in March 2020.

Welcoming the RBI announcement, SBI Chairman Dinesh Kumar Khara said the decision to review the payment landscape and further fine-tuning UPI transfer for small value transactions could act as an enabler of mass digitisation.

RBI also announced that banks can now infuse capital in their overseas branches and subsidiaries without prior approval of the central bank. Currently, banks seek prior approval of RBI for infusing capital in their overseas branches and subsidiaries.

The RBI also proposed to revise the all-in-cost ceiling for new foreign currency ECBs and TCs (Trade Credit), from 450 bps to 500 bps and from 250 bps to 300 bps, respectively over the ARRs.

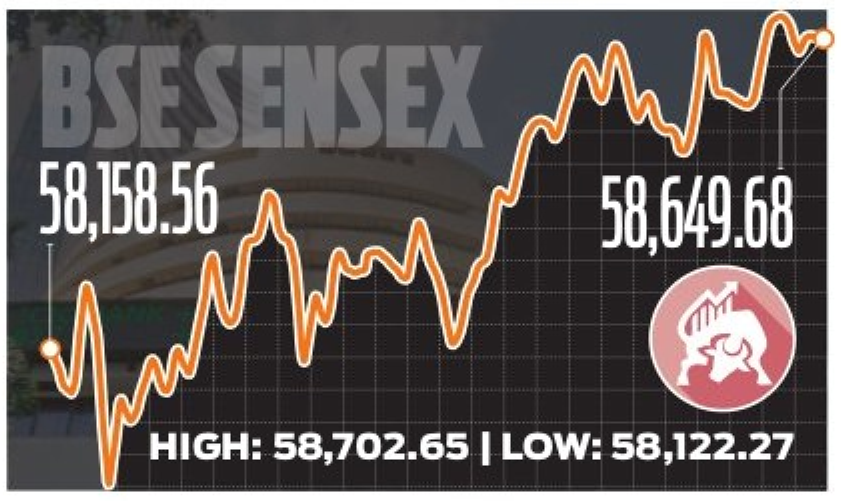
Markets move away from Omicron fears; Sensex gains over 1,000 points

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

EVEN as the whole world is taking a precautionary measure to control the spread of Omicron, it seems the impact of this new coronavirus variant is fading away from investors' sentiment. The benchmark index — Sensex — on Wednesday rallied over 1,000 points, taking its two-day gain to about 2000 points. This has increased investors' wealth by a whopping ₹7.5 lakh crore in two days.

The 30-share index surged 1016 points or 1.76% on Wednesday to close at 58,649.68 while the broader index NSE Nifty advanced 293.05 points or 1.71% to 17,469.75. A rally in global markets and the Reserve Bank's decision to leave the key interest rate unchanged also supported Indian markets.

"Fears over Omicron faded as recent reports suggested that the new virus isn't as deadly as earlier anticipated and this helped the market to add-on to recent strong gains. RBI's GDP forecast for FY22 remained high at 9.5% showing confidence over economic recovery and inflation forecast is below the market estimates," said Vinod Nair, Head of Research at Geojit Financial Services.



Despite this two-day rally, brokerages aren't very bullish in the near term as they expect profit booking at this high level. Moreover, many global brokerages maintain that current valuations seem overstretched. The current gain also comes after benchmark indices witnessed a correction of 10%. Even at current level, Sensex is about 4,000 points lower than its October 19 peak.

"Market has closed on a strong note today and hence, we may see further extension of this as well; but we still do not have the conviction of it moving beyond the higher boundary of 17,700 (Nifty) in this leg," Sameet Chavan (Chief Analyst-Technical and Derivatives, Angel One).

Ajit Mishra, VP - Research, Religare Broking, said that the RBI policy is behind us, the focus will shift back to global cues and upcoming macro data (IIP & CPI). "Further, as the number of IPOs is lined up, primary markets will keep investors busy. Given the high volatility in the market, we would remain cautiously optimistic on the markets," added Mishra.

NEW OUTLOOK

Fitch cuts GDP forecast to 8.4% for this fiscal

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

FITCH Ratings on Wednesday cut India's economic growth forecast to 8.4% for the current fiscal year ending March 31, 2022, but raised GDP growth projection for the next financial year to 10.3%.

In October Fitch had said India's GDP will grow at 8.7% in 2021-22 and 10% in FY23.

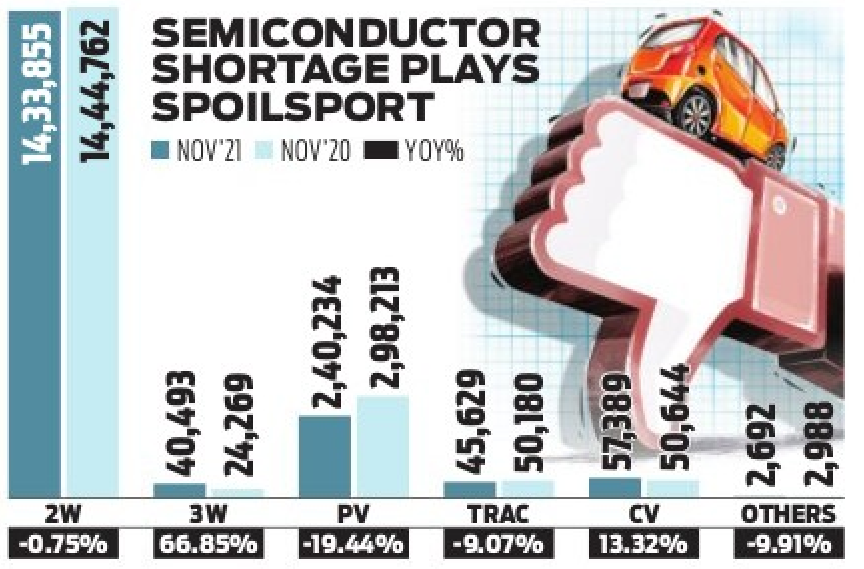
"We have cut our FY22 (financial year ending March 2022) GDP growth forecast, to 8.4% (-0.3 pp). GDP growth momentum should peak in FY23, at 10.3% (+0.2 pp), boosted by a consumer-led recovery and the easing of supply disruptions," Fitch said in its Global Economic Outlook.

Fitch said that while the economy bounced back in September quarter, it was subdued than the estimate with weak service sector. "The bounce was more subdued than we expected in our September GEO. The rebound in the services sector was weaker than hoped for," it said.

The business surveys and mobility data point to activity growing robustly in the December quarter, with the growth in the manufacturing sector is constrained by ongoing supply shortages, which, Fitch said, is expected to ease in the coming months.

But, "risks to the recovery remain, especially in the near term, given that less than one-third of the population is fully vaccinated. The newly discovered Omicron variant has added to risks," it said.

On inflation, Fitch said price rises are largely driven by domestic factors. The inflation rate has consistently hovered above the upper-band of the Reserve Bank of India's 2%-6% target since the onset of the pandemic, initially pushed up by pandemic-related disruption to local supply chains, boosting food prices.



Retail car sales on slow lane in Nov, skid 19%

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

RETAIL sales of passenger vehicles (PVs) fell 19% in November 2021 to 2,40,234 units as against 2,98,213 units sold in the same month last year as chip shortage continue to play a spoiler, according to data issued by auto dealer body Fada.

Large Indian automakers such as Maruti Suzuki and Hyundai are producing PVs at much lower quantity than their installed capacity as they are unable to outsource vital electric components, mainly the semi-conductor.

"PV continues to face the brunt of semi-conductor shortage. While the new launches are keeping customer's interest high, it is only the lack of supply which is not allowing sales to conclude. The extended waiting period is now starting to make customers jittery and this may lead to loss of interest in vehicle buying," said Vinkesh Gulati, president at the Federation of Automobile Dealers Associations (FADA).

Two-wheeler sales also registered a decline in demand despite having an eventful month of festive and marriage season. It fell 1% year-on-year in November 2021 to 14,33,855 units.

"While the 2W segment saw almost at par sales compared to last year (which itself was a bad year), overall sentiment remained low as marriage season also didn't help in revival except in one or two states. Apart from this, crop loss due to incessant rains and flood in southern states, high acquisition price as well as fuel costs kept the customers away. Further, there are no signs of increase in inquiry levels which is a bigger cause of concern," said Gulati. To note, Hero MotoCorp and Honda 2Wheelers, India's two biggest players in this segment, had reported abysmal numbers for the month of November.

On the near term outlook, Fada said that the new variant of Covid 'Omicron' has once again gripped the entire nation in fear. This will further impact the overall vehicle demand. Price rise due to high input costs and high fuel costs are continuing to add customers' woes. On the 2-wheeler front, Fada urged manufacturers to announce attractive scheme which can work as a stimulus for growth in sales.

Hyundai to invest ₹4k cr to have 6 EVs by 2028

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

INDIA'S second largest carmaker Hyundai is planning to invest ₹4,000 crore for R&D (Research & Development) towards the expansion of its battery electric vehicle portfolio. At present, Hyundai sells Kona EV in India and it aims to launch 5 more by 2028.

This aggressive plan to increase EV reach comes at a time when home-grown automaker Tata Motors has taken a lead in the small but fast growing domestic electric passenger vehicle market with 3 models and has plans to launch 10 EVs in the next 5 years.

According to industry data for the first half of FY22, a total of 6,261 electric PVs were sold in the April-Sept 2021 period, marking a 234% year-on-year increase. Tata Motors, with 4,419 units sold between April and September 2021, accounts for over 70% of the total sales during the period.

Beside Tata Motors, Mahindra & Mahindra and MG Motor have also stated plans to expand their EV reach in India. As for India's largest carmaker Maruti Suzuki, the company has no concrete plans to launch a fully battery powered vehicle at least till 2025.

Hyundai said its EVs will cater to mass market and mass premium segments in India. SS Kim, MD & CEO, Hyundai Motor India, said, "Hyundai has been at the forefront of the electric mobility revolution in India, with the introduction of India's 1st electric SUV - KONA Electric in 2019. As we continue to redefine the mobility space, today we are yet again showcasing our commitment towards Indian customers with the announcement of expanding our BEV line-up to 6 vehicles for the Indian Market by 2028."

Mahindra and Jio-bp ink EV pact

Mahindra Group and Reliance BP Mobility (also known as Jio-bp) on Wednesday announced a non-binding memorandum of understanding (MoU) to explore creation of EV products and services, alongside identifying synergies in low-carbon and conventional fuels. The MoU also covers evaluating charging solutions by Jio-bp for Mahindra vehicles including electric 3 and 4 wheelers, quadricycles and e-SCV (Small Commercial Vehicles – sub 4 ton). Mahindra Group and its channel partner locations will be evaluated for setting up of Jio-bp Mobility Stations and EV charging and swapping points apart from utilising existing Jio-bp stations. Jio-bp had recently launched its first mobility station in Maharashtra, Mahindra said in a regulatory filing. Additionally, business models like Mobility as a Service (MaaS) and Battery as a Service (BaaS) will be explored wherein Jio-bp could provide charging solutions to vehicles made by Mahindra Group.

India must migrate from 2G to 4G to 5G at the earliest, says Ambani

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

RELIANCE Industries Limited Chairman and Managing Director Mukesh Ambani on Wednesday said India must complete the migration from 2G to 4G to 5G at the earliest, and that keeping millions of Indians confined to 2G is to deprive them of the benefits of the digital revolution.

Addressing the fifth edition of the Indian Mobile Congress, he suggested that the roll-out of 5G should be India's national priority. "At Jio, we are currently focused on 4G and 5G execution and broadband infrastructure expansion. We have developed a 100% home-grown and comprehensive 5G solution which is fully cloud native and digitally managed. Because of our converged, future-proof architecture, Jio's network could be quickly and seamlessly upgraded from 4G to 5G."

He also highlighted that ubiquitous fibre connectivity should be completed across India on a mission mode as the world is now transitioning into a digital-first era.

"Fibre has almost unlimited data carriage capacity. Therefore, to be future-ready, India has to be fiber-ready…. If all the players in the industry work together, we can rapidly achieve a nationwide footprint of fibre, just as we reached mobile telephony to every corner of the country in the last decade," he shared.

Speaking at the same event, Bharti Airtel Chairman Sunil Bharti Mittal urged the government to reduce litigation in the telecom sector and cut the price of spectrum. "I would request the government to lower the temperature of the industry when it comes to litigation. Old cases need to be settled and the new cases need to be avoided through light touch regulation," he said.

Semiconductor: Govt open to tech, financial tie-ups

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE government on Wednesday informed that it is open for any technological and financial collaborations and investments that would help India to become a semiconductor manufacturing hub in the post-covid scenario.

In a written reply in Lok Sabha, the ministry of Electronics and Information Technology said the government has been making serious efforts to promote semiconductor design and also to set up semiconductor wafer fabrication facilities in the country. "Semiconductor fabrication plants are highly capital intensive and resource intensive, and are at the cutting edge of manufacturing with rapidly changing technology cycles. Further, the semiconductor fabrication capability for leading / cutting edge technology nodes is available with only few companies globally," informed the ministry. To promote the production of semiconductor, the government has approved various projects including establishment of Gallium Nitride (GaN) Ecosystem Enabling Centre and Incubator for High Power and High Frequency Electronics, costing ₹298.66 crore. It is also giving financial incentive of 25% on capital expenditure for setting up of semiconductor fabrication units.

Pele hospitalised due to colon tumor, to be discharged in days

Brazilian soccer great Pele was hospitalized in Sao Paulo to continue his colon tumor treatment. Hospital Albert Einstein said in a statement on Wednesday that 81-year-old Edson Arantes do Nascimento is "stable and expected to be released on the next few days."

KOHLI REMOVED, ROHIT TO LEAD IN ODIs

Selectors take bold call with an eye on 2023 50-over World Cup; Jadeja, Axar & Gill to miss South Africa Tests

VENKATA KRISHNA B @Chennai

THE biggest development was buried at the bottom of the BCCI's press release announcing the Test squad for the South Africa tour. For the first time since 2005, the senior selection panel of the BCCI, has removed an incumbent as ODI captain. Ever since Virat Kohli gave up his T20 captaincy, all things have been pointing towards him losing the ODI role too and the selectors, with the full-backing of the BCCI, took the bold step on Wednesday. Going forward, Kohli will remain captain only in Tests and Rohit Sharma will lead in white-ball cricket, apart from being the vice-captain in long format.

The decision in itself isn't surprising, as teams rarely have two different captains for white-ball cricket. Moreover, it is reliably learnt that when Rohit accepted the T20 captaincy, he did so on the precondition that he would get to lead in ODIs too. However, right-through this period, Kohli is understood to have made no intentions of stepping down as ODI skipper. Having relinquished T20 captaincy citing workload and following it up by stepping down as Royal Challengers Bangalore skipper, he believed these factors would keep in good stead to lead the team in ODIs and Tests.

With no T20Is to be played in South Africa, one expected selectors to delay the decision until the series against West Indies, but eventually they took the call on Wednesday. Although the BCCI top brass were advocating for a change in leadership since England tour, the selectors seem to have consulted few players and team management about the road ahead. And following lengthy discussions, Kohli has been removed as ODI captain. Sourav Ganguly was the last Indian captain to be removed by the selectors, with the current head coach Rahul Dravid replacing him in 2005.

That said, to remove a captain who enjoyed a winning percentage of 68 and was easily the stand-out performer in the format over the past decade, is not an easy decision particularly when one considers his overall record. He won 15 of the 19 bilateral series as captain. His win-loss ratio of 2.4 is the best for any Indian captain. Kohli, though, retains full support with regards to the Test team as he prepares to lead them through a transition phase post South Africa tour. The flipside of Kohli not being captain in ODIs, could prove beneficial as it can help him focus on his batting.

With regards to the Tests in SA, the selectors have named an 18-member squad, which includes Cheteshwar Pujara and Ajinkya Rahane — two batters who have been struggling for form.

TEST SQUAD FOR SA

Kohli (Captain), Rohit (vice-captain), Rahul, Agarwal, Pujara, Rahane, Shreyas, Vihari, Pant (wk), Saha (wk), Ashwin, Jayant, Ishant, Shami, Umesh, Bumrah, Shardul, Siraj. Standby Players: Navdeep Saini, Saurabh Kumar, Deepak Chahar, Arzan Nagwaswalla.

IOA president, secretary split over hosting AGM

INDRANEEL DAS @Chennai

THE rumblings within the Indian Olympic Association are disturbing. The ugly divide between the IOA president and the secretary is threatening to jeopardise the independence of the organisation too. The Delhi High Court's decision to stay the election process of the IOA at least until December 10, the next date of hearing, has caused some consternation among senior members especially with those siding with IOA president Narinder Batra.

With one eye on December 10, some members are also thinking about whether the Annual General Meeting on December 19 would go ahead as per plan. Even here the house is split. On one hand Batra had intimated the members that AGM would be held as there is no HC stay on it, however, secretary general Rajeev Mehta has asked for cancellation of the AGM as it would involve costs and since there is no election AGM should not go ahead. Batra camp is also consulting some top lawyers for a quick resolution to the matter. However, they believe AGM could be a platform to discuss a lot of other things including settling IOA's accounts.

Some senior members felt that the meeting should go as per plan as the house can take a decision on the way forward for the organisation. Some, however, echoed Mehta's concerns. Also it could be a platform where the next course of action can decided. The tenure of the executive council, including the office bearers (president, the secretary general and the treasurer), will technically get over on December 14 as the last election took place on the same date in 2017. The IOA constitution, under rule 7 Annual General Meeting, powers, functions and duties states: "To hold election of office-bearers and the Executive Council at least once every four years, in accordance with the provisions of this Constitution". Moreover, the AGM has to be held in the last quarter of every year with 2020 being an exception because of pandemic.

However, it needs to be seen if the agenda can be inserted or discussed during the AGM. If the court doesn't intervene or stall the AGM, it could turn into another show of strength for Batra. Assam Olympic Association too is ready to host it.

There is another issue. The restrictive clause had been the highlight of the litigation in court. Both Union of India (sports ministry) and the secretary general lawyers had stressed upon the court to remove that clause at least. If the constitution needs to be changed the IOA will have to call for a special general meeting with a 15-day notice and the amended constitution circulated seven days before meeting.

Cummins skittles England out for 147

BRISBANE: Pacer Pat Cummins took five wickets in a scintillating start to his captaincy as Australia routed England for 147 on the opening day of the Ashes at the Gabba on Wednesday. After England skipper Joe Root won the toss and opted to bat, the Australian pace bowling trio of Cummins, Mitchell Starc and Josh Hazlewood ran riot to bundle the tourists out in just 50.1 overs.

Serena won't play Australian Open

MELBOURNE: Not long after Serena Williams' name was absent from the entry list for Australian Open, she confirmed the obvious: the seven-time champion won't play the 2022 edition in January.

Momota, Indonesia out

NEW DELHI: Kento Momota withdrew from the BWF World Championships after failing to recover from a back injury. Concerned over the spread of the new Covid-19 variant, the Indonesia has also pulled out.

Barty: Player of Year

ST PETERSBURG: Ash Barty's Wimbledon title and hold on the No. 1 ranking helped her win WTA Player of the Year for the second time. Emma Raducanu was picked as Newcomer of the Year.

Karnataka in final four

BENGALURU: Karnataka State Police defeated Jharkhand Police 1-0 in the quarterfinal match at the All India Police Hockey Championships on Wednesday. Umesh R Mutegar's goal in the 54th minute proved to be enough as they booked a semis berth with that narrow victory.

K'taka lose to Punjab

BENGALURU: Punjab defeated Karnataka in the men's under 25 one day trophy semifinal by 50 runs on Wednesday. Vishwa Pratap Singh (120) and Nehal Wadhera (106) helped Punjab score 317/8. In reply, Karnataka were bundled out for 267.

ISL: Bengaluru suffer third loss

ENS & AGENCIES @Bengaluru

IT has been a tough start to the ISL season for Bengaluru FC. They suffered their third loss of the season as the Blues went down 0-1 to Hyderabad FC in Bambolim on Wednesday. Bartholomew Ogbeche's early goal proved to be enough for Hyderabad, who have jumped to third place in the table while Bengaluru are ninth.

Hyderabad did not take much time to get going as they took lead in the seventh minute. Ogbeche's long range shot took deflection before beating Gurpreet Singh Sandhu far post. Bengaluru were eager to bounce back and score and equaliser in the first half, but it did not happen. Their best chance came late in the first 45 when Jayesh Rane's quick reverse pass found Roshan in space down the flank but the full-back's cross was found wanting.

Bengaluru started the second half on a much bright note, asking questions to the Hyderabad's defence and especially their goalkepper Laxmikant Kattimani, who made some decent saves to deny Cleiton Silva a goal. Later on, he saved Suresh's shot on goal as well. Despite the second half chances, Bengaluru failed to score the equaliser.

K'taka off to winning start in Vijay Hazare Trophy

ASHIM SUNAM @Bengaluru

KARNATAKA came up with an all-round display to beat Puducherry by 236 runs in their opening Vijay hazare Trophy encounter in Thiruvananthapuram on Wednesday. Ravikumar Samarth top-scored with 95, K Siddharth (61), Manish Pandey (64) and Srinivas Sharath (55) also contributed with the bat. J Suchith and V Koushik scalped four and three wickets respectively to script a thumping win.

Though Rohan Kadam was out for a duck, Samarth and Siddharth looked solid in the morning. They were involved in a second wicket partnership of 153 runs, which helped them lay a solid foundation. Siddharth's half-century comprised of five fours while Samarth, who hit ten fours, missed his ton by just five runs.

However, it was the innings from Pandey and Sharath, which put their team in a commanding position. The skipper was at his menacing best, dealing in boundaries. His 48-ball 64 comprised of two fours and four sixes while Sharath hit seven fours and two sixes. It was this partnership of 95 runs, which pushed their team total to 289/6.

Karnataka carried that momentum into the second innings with their bowlers taking wickets at regular intervals. Koushik broke Puducherry's back, scalping three wickets inside the first 11 overs. With Puducherry chasing 190 to win, they were in serious trouble as they were 37/4. From there on, Puducherry never really recovered as Suchith ran through the lower order, scalping four wickets, all trapped leg before. They managed 53 runs only.

BRIEF SCORES: Karnataka 289/6 in 50 ovs (Samarth 95, Pandey 64; Bhati 2/62) bt Puducherry 53 in 17.3 ovs (Suchith 4/3)

Pfizer vax efficacy reduced 40-fold against Omicron

Much-anticipated study shows Omicron's impact on immunity; Pfizer suggests 3rd jab

MEDICINE

NEW DELHI: The preliminary analysis from an experiment that was carried out in South Africa to assess the effect of the Covid-19 vaccine by Pfizer-BioNTech on Omicron variant has shown that the shot is about 40 times less effective in neutralising the mutant virus.

Omicron, detected first in South Africa last month, has been found to have more than 50 mutations, including the ones responsible for increased transmissibility and immune evasion — as compared to the original virus that triggered the pandemic . It has raised fresh worries of a surge in cases worldwide.

Though the coronavirus vaccine by Pfizer is not part of India's Covid-19 vaccination campaign, the early study results from the African countries have been much anticipated globally, including in India.

For their part, Pfizer and its vaccine-developing partner BioNTech said that while two doses may not be protective enough to prevent infection, lab tests showed a booster dose increased by 25-fold people's levels of virus-fighting antibodies against Omicron. Preliminary findings demonstrated that blood samples taken a month after a booster showed people harboured levels of Omicron-neutralising antibodies that were similar to amounts proven protective against earlier variants after two doses.

Amid the bleak news on the experiment in South Africa, researchers at the Africa Health Research Institute in Durban meanwhile also pointed out that omicron's ability to escape vaccine antibodies is "incomplete".

Of the total 12 individuals from whom the blood samples were collected, five of the participants, all previously infected, showed "relatively high neutralization titers with Omicron".

The research, which is yet to be peer-reviewed or come up in a pre-print, also showed that the vaccine-induced antibodies dropped three-fold in their ability to neutralise the earlier beta variant that previously dominated South Africa, suggesting omicron is much better at evading protection.

"The results we present here with Omicron show much more extensive escape," the researchers wrote. But, "previous infection, followed by vaccination or booster is likely to increase the neutralization level and likely confer protection from severe disease in Omicron infection", they wrote.

Vaccine for Omicron

Pfizer and BioNTech already are working to create an Omicron-specific vaccine in case it's needed.

Antibody levels predict how well a vaccine may prevent infection with the virus but they are just one layer of the immune system's defenses. ENS

'Omicron no worse than other variants'

HEALTH

THE Omicron variant appears to be no worse than other coronavirus strains, top scientists from the WHO and the United States told AFP, while cautioning that more research is needed to judge its severity.

The hopeful assessments came as global concern grew over the heavily mutated variant of the coronavirus, which has forced dozens of nations to re-impose border restrictions and raised the possibility of a return to economically punishing lockdowns.

While it is likely more transmissible than previous variants, "the preliminary data don't indicate that this is more severe," the World Health Organization's second-in-command told AFP.

"In fact, if anything, the direction is towards less severity," WHO emergencies director Michael Ryan said in an interview late on Tuesday, insisting though that more research was needed.

BEYOND BOUNDARIES

From mythological figures to heroines, this event celebrated the dreams of sexual minorities through a photo exhibition

SANATH PRASAD

BANU, 55, a transgender activist, always wanted to fill in the shoes of veteran actor Jayamalini. With Truth Dream, a photo exhibition, that was held at the Bangalore International Centre, recently, her dream to personify the actor has come true. Thanks to Bengaluru-based non-governmental organisation, Payana, and media and arts' collective, Maraa, which are collaborating to introduce a photo exhibition that celebrates beauty, aging and fantasy among sexual minorities.

The project features 12 friends from the minority community, including transwomen, transmen, kothi, and gender non-conforming individuals. The project aims to break the stereotypical narrative around these communities that are usually associated with odd jobs like sex work and begging and provides a platform to bring their dreams to the limelight.

According to Chandni, founder and member of Payana, which upholds the rights of sexual minorities, the 12 participants are all aged above 50. She believes that many youngsters belonging to these communities are now getting the scope to express themselves in various stages. "These 12 friends have been associated with me for a long time. When I was a boy, I always wanted to dress like my mother or sister. Gradually, I was also inspired by the fashion styles of many heroines in movies. Similarly, this project aims to fulfil the fantasy dreams of these 12 participants, where they can personify the characters or role models that they always dreamt of," says Chandni, a transgender activist.

From sporting the costumes of goddesses to queens and cabaret dancers, participants were photographed in different styles. Since this is also the first time that they are exposed to lights, green screens and cameras, feeling comfortable in front of the camera was challenging. "We organised the photoshoot two months ago. Initially it was challenging for them to face the camera because they are not used to such filmy settings. However, I encouraged them to be themselves and act as they wish," says Chandni. The portraits of these participants was displayed in black and white and colour formats during the exhibition.

According to Angarika G, who is part of Maraa, who curated the exhibition, the project is a subtle – yet – an artistic response to the stigma attached to around sexual minorities who subject to discrimination, abuse, and violence. "The idea is to transform the experience of beauty and fantasy once you are above a certain age. Since these are women from the working class, reaching 50 is very challenging because they are exposed to high levels of violence. We wanted to counter them by celebrating aging and beauty through this photo exhibition," says Angarika.

UNIFORM STORIES

Cadet No 1 by author Maya Chandrasekaran are true tales of women in the Armed Forces

ANUSHREE MADHAVAN

THERE are hundreds of untold (and possibly) lost stories out there of amazing, pioneering women, blazing paths in their ways. As authors and storytellers, our job is to try and unearth these stories and showcase them," says author Maya Chandrasekaran. With Cadet No.1 — And other Amazing Women In The Armed Forces, illustrated by Meera Naidu — Chandrasekaran does just that by introducing readers to Wg Cdr Dr V Ramanan, Major Priya Jhingan and the all-woman crew of Navika Sagar Parikrama aboard INSV Tarini.

A common thread that ties the lives of these women together — in different eras during post-Independence — is their determination.

It all started for Chandrasekaran after listening to the stories of her grand-aunt, Vijayam mami. All this Carnatic music-loving mami, who held many concerts on All India Radio, wanted was to serve people. Soon, she became the first woman in the Indian Air Force. When Chandrasekaran wanted to tell her story, it snowballed into an anthology — of women in the Defence — for young adults. "Meera and I had already been working for a while on the first story in the book, Officer 4971, when we were introduced to the editorial team at HarperCollins. We have always wanted the stories to have a wide reach ," she says.

Adding that extra zing to this book are Naidu's illustrations — in the form of diary entries, blogs and images. Being the daughter of an army officer, Naidu was excited to bring the story of this often-unknown life to a larger audience. "India has been shaped by remarkable women and this book provided an opportunity to acknowledge their service," she says.

Maya Chandrasekaran

Excerpts

Tell us about working with each other.

MC: The moment I decided to write Cadet No.1 as a book for tweens, I asked Meera, a dear friend, to partner with me on illustrations. It was clear early on that the art and illustrations in the book would be equally critical to conveying the story and mood. We developed an easy rhythm, working around each other's professional and personal commitments to meet timelines.

MN: I've never worked with Maya, but her drive helped steer the entire process. Artists often get lost in the ideas, designers often get lost in the process, and so working with a creative person who also understood structure was a godsend. The meat of our discussions was most often ensuring that the tone of the text and the illustrations proceeded in tandem.

How did you round in on these personalities?

MC: Wing Commander Vijayalakshmi Ramanan (Officer 4971) was the starting point for this book and is a cousin of my grandmother's. Initially, I was intrigued by her life history and achievements, but very quickly, I got drawn into researching other pioneering women in the armed forces. There are dozens of inspirational women and stories, but the women in these stories (Major Priya Jhingan, Lt. Cdr. Vartika Joshi, Lt Cdr Pratibha Jamwal, Lt Cdr P. Swathi, Lt Aishwarya Boddapati, Lt S Vijaya Devi and Lt Payal Gupta) stood out to some extent for the amazing sense of adventure, grit and passion they showed.

Are there any anecdotes from their lives that didn't make it to the book?

MC: There were many, of course, but one that stands out is about Wg Cdr Dr Ramanan. She was fiercely independent and learnt how to drive a car at 14 (in 1938). This was, in itself, unusual for a woman of her times. But equally fascinating is the fact that she continued to drive into her 80s, often taking her car, an Austin 8, around Bangalore as she continued to practice medicine.

Was illustrating real-life incidents challenging?

MN: The illustrations are all black and white, not usually what we associate with books for children. I tried to add layers to the detailed works that would make them stand out.

QUICK FIX

What's cooking IN YOUR KITCHEN?

We are hungry for recipes with minimum ingredients and maximum flavours. Share your quick-fix with us, along with step-by-step photos, at cityexpresschn@gmail.com.

METHI MANGO VEGETABLE RICE

INGREDIENTS

- Raw rice: 200 g
- Cut vegetables (capsicum, cabbage, carrot): 1 cup each
- Grated mango: 1 cup
- Methi leaves: 1/2 bunch
- Green chilli: 5 pieces
- Dhaniya: 2 tsp
- Mustard seeds: 1 tsp
- Gram dal: 1 tbsp
- Asafoetida: 1/2 tsp
- Salt ■ Oil to cook

METHOD

- Cook rice, allow it to cool. Dry roast dhaniya and gram dal. Keep it aside.
- Take a spoon of oil in a pan and roast green chillies. Then, grind the roasted items coarsely with the chillies. Chop the methi leaves. In a pan, take some oil and add mustard seeds and vegetables, one after the other, and sauté. Once half cooked, add in mango, methi leaves and sauté.
- Add salt, the powder, asafoetida, then sauté. Once every thing is cooked and combined together, take it off the heat. Allow it to cool.
- Add the required quantity of cooked rice to it and mix well. Serve with preferred raita recipe. —Akila Thiyagarajan, Bengaluru

FIT BIT

EKA PADA SETU BANDHA SARVANGASANA

(ONE LEG BRIDGE POSE IN SHOULDER STAND)

In Sanskrit, 'eka' means one, 'pada' means foot or leg, 'setu' means bridge, 'bhanda' means lock, 'sarva' means all, 'anga' means limb, and 'asana' means pose. Before attempting this asana, it is essential to practice Bridge Pose. It stimulates the Visuddha and Anahata chakras. The former is associated with self-expression, listening skills, creativity and psychic ability. The latter promotes love, compassion, forgiveness, harmony, trust and positive thoughts, which supports spiritual progress.

STEPS

- Lie on your back with your knees bent, feet on the floor, and arms at your sides, palms down.
- Press your feet and arms firmly into the floor and lift your hips toward the ceiling.
- Roll your shoulders underneath your body and clasp your hands.
- Extend your arms along the floor beneath your pelvis. Keep your thighs and feet parallel (This is Bridge pose).
- Press your left foot firmly. Exhaling, bend your right knee and draw it in, towards your chest.
- Inhaling, extend your right leg up toward the ceiling. Reach the top from the ball of your foot and make your leg as vertical as possible.
- Lift your hips as high as you can. Lengthen your entire spine.
- Press evenly through your left foot – do not roll to the outer edge of your foot.
- Hold for up to 10 seconds.
- Exhale as you lower your right foot to the floor. Repeat with your left leg for the same length of time.
- To release the pose, unclasp your hands and rest them alongside your body, palms facing down. Slowly roll down, one vertebra at a time. Let your knees drop together and rest.

BENEFITS

- Stretches and opens chest, heart, shoulders, spine, neck, thighs, and hip flexors. It revitalises legs.
- Helps strengthen core muscles.
- Promotes sense of balance.
- Stimulates abdominal organs and thyroid glands.
- Improves digestion and regulates metabolism; increases energy.
- Relieves from stress, fatigue, anxiety, mild depression, headaches and insomnia.
- Increases lung capacity and relief from asthma.

LIMITATIONS

- Don't perform this pose if you have a neck or shoulder injury.
- Always work within your range of limits and abilities.
- Avoid during menstruation and pregnancy.
- If you have any health problems, you can consult with your yoga teacher before practicing it.

About 30-40 per cent of the population suffers from sleep problems for several days a month

HOW TO HELP YOURSELF GET A GOODNIGHT'S REST

DR SATISH RAMAIAH

SLEEP problems are a common medical issue that a huge population suffers from. They are manifested in different ways. It is normal to have sleep problems for a short term period. About 30-40 per cent of the population suffers from sleep problems for several days a month. Occasionally sleep problems can run in families. A person with sleep problems usually complains of one or more of the following:

- Inability to sleep or lack of sleep usually referred to as insomnia.
- Excessive sleepiness, particularly during the day or hypersomnia.
- Abnormal activity, behaviour or experience during sleep.

What causes sleep problems?

- Not having a good sleep routine, for instance, going to bed too early or too late.
- Uncomfortable bedding, noisy surroundings, too cold or too warm temperatures and too much light.
- Night shifts, jet lags, frequent change in work patterns and change of sleeping places.
- Physical pain, snoring or breathing difficulties during sleep and other medical problems related to thyroid, diabetes, hypertension, Parkinson's disease.
- Suffering from psychological problems like depression, anxiety, phobias.
- Developing abnormal psychological feelings associated with sleep like anticipatory anxiety about inability to sleep, fear of dreams.
- Excessive consumption of coffee, tea, alcohol and use of cigarettes, stimulant drugs.
- Unhealthy eating habits like late dinners and consumption of excessive fatty food.
- Some medication can also give rise to sleep problems

Help yourself

It is important to identify the cause of your sleep problems. Most of the short-term sleep problems are relieved by just practising good sleep hygiene. However, it may be necessary to get your sleep problems assessed by a specialist to rule out any complex causes and to receive appropriate treatment.

This is particularly important if the sleep problems become prolonged or worsen over time or if it is affecting your mental state, physical health, work-life, relationships etc.

For short term and uncomplicated sleep problems, it is important to try different things and find what works best for you.

Here are a few tips to follow:

- Practice a good routine of going to bed and waking up at the same time every day
- Undertake regular exercises, but not just before sleep
- Relaxation or meditation before going to bed
- Avoid large-portion meals too close to bedtime
- Avoid stimulating activities like watching TV, playing with smartphones and tablets in the bed
- Avoid use of excessive caffeine, alcohol nicotine use
- Avoid daytime naps
- Get your medical conditions/medication regularly reviewed by your doctors
- Seek help for your stress and ruminating unhelpful thoughts
- Make sure your environment is comfortable with a firm bed without any disturbing noise or light
- Don't try too hard. If you are struggling to sleep, sit on a chair and try to read until you feel a bit tired

Diabetes and Pregnancy

Women who have conceived after the age of 35, have a family history of diabetes or are obese are at a greater risk of diabetes

DR KAVITHA KOVI

GESTATIONAL diabetes is a serious health issue during pregnancy and has negative implications both on the mother and the foetus.

Poor control of diabetes during pregnancy increases the chances for birth defects and results in serious complications for the woman. Proper health care before and during pregnancy can help prevent these defects and additional health problems.

About 10 per cent of pregnant women in India develop gestational diabetes at some point during their pregnancy. Women who have conceived after the age of 35, have family history of diabetes or obese are at a greater risk of diabetes during pregnancy.

What are the signs and symptoms?

Most women with gestational diabetes do not have any noticeable signs and symptoms, however, some women may experience the following symptoms associated with diabetes:

❶ Unusual thirst
❷ Increased appetite
❸ Nausea
❹ Fatigue
❺ Increased urinary frequency

What are the complications?

Diabetes during pregnancy can impact the growth hormones of babies and they can grow big. It also increases the chance of a cesarean section which can result in the child having problems after birth. The chance of the baby developing obesity and diabetes in later life is high. These problems are reduced if blood sugar control is good.

Diagnosis and treatment

All pregnant women undergo a Glucose Tolerance Test (GTT) at 24 weeks of pregnancy. This involves checking the blood sugar values after taking a glucose drink. If the values are abnormal, they are diagnosed to have gestational diabetes.

The treatment for gestational diabetes is simple as many women can be treated with diet and exercise while some may need insulin or tablets.

Precautions post delivery

Once diagnosed with gestational diabetes, ideally, pregnant women need to self-monitor their blood glucose levels throughout their pregnancy, all through the day to make sure they are within the limits as advised by the doctor. This can be done with the help of a finger pricker designed to check sugar levels at home through a drop of blood. Following a diabetic diet plan and eating small frequent meals to prevent excess weight gain can help in maintaining normal blood sugar levels. Additionally, exercising utilises the glucose that is stored in your body and converts it to energy. Thus, regular exercise helps in reducing blood sugar levels.

Lastly, we advise such women to undergo a glucose tolerance test six weeks after delivery for long term follow up.

Although this type of cancer can occur at any age, it is more prevalent in young adult men, especially between the ages of 18 and 35

All about testicular cancer

DR AMIT RAUTHAN

TESTICLES are an important part of the male reproductive system and are located inside a sac called the scrotum. They make the hormones such as testosterone and sperms fertilise a female egg cell to start a pregnancy. It starts in the cells of the testicles (testes). The most common (more than 90 per cent) type of testicular cancer is called germ cell tumour.

Testicular cancer in young adults

Although testicular cancer can occur at any age, it is more prevalent in young adult men (especially between ages 18 to 35 years) and constitutes less than one per cent of all adult cancers. Testicular cancer is not talked about as it is not very common. In India, it constitutes 0.3 per cent of all cancers and ranks 31 among all cancers.

Watch out for

- A lump in either testicle
- Heaviness in the scrotum
- Pain in the abdomen
- Pain in the testicle or the scrotum
- Enlargement of the breasts. It may rarely cause symptoms like breast enlargement due to the release of hormones.
- In advanced stages, patients can present with back pain, cough and breathlessness due to spread to the lungs.

Risk Factors

There are not many known risk factors leading to testicular cancer. Some risk factors include the history of undescended testis at birth, abnormal testicle development, family history of testicular cancer, and some rare inherited diseases. Prior injury to the testicles, though blamed many times, is not a proven risk factor.

Diagnosis

Sometimes, testicular cancer is self-detected by men either unintentionally or through testicular self-examination. In other cases, it is usually detected by your doctor during a routine physical exam. Testicular cancer typically presents in young males with a lump or swelling in the testicles. To confirm if the lump is testicular cancer, your doctor may order a testicular ultrasound test, and certain blood tests to detect the presence and levels of tumour markers in your blood. Checking blood for tumour markers like alpha-fetoprotein (AFP), beta HCG and LDH help in the diagnosis and staging.

Medical Treatment

The treatment of testicular cancers involves surgery and removal of the affected testis. If the lump on your testicle is diagnosed to be cancerous, a surgery called radical inguinal orchiectomy may be performed to remove the cancer affected testicle. In some cases, nearby lymph nodes are also removed using a procedure called retroperitoneal lymph node dissection. Alternative treatments such as radiation therapy, or chemotherapy may be recommended before or after surgery. The cure rates after appropriate treatment in testicular cancers are very good.

Usually, testicular cancer affects one testicle, and the other testicle can produce enough male hormone, testosterone, for a future normal healthy life. But in some patients, infertility can be a side effect due to cancer or its treatment, and this should always be discussed while planning treatment.

Importance of self-examination

It is not clear if testicular cancer is preventable. However, it can be detected in its early stages by doing regular testicle self-examinations. You can discuss with your doctor how testicular self-examination is performed. It is a simple and painless test and takes just a minute.

Doing the testicular self-examination in front of the mirror may be helpful. Since testicular cancer is relatively rare, in case you find a lump, don't panic. Consult your doctor for a prompt diagnosis.

- Check your testicles one at a time.
- Using fingers and thumb, gently roll the testicle and feel for lumps or swelling.
- Also, look for any changes in the testicular shape and size.

SOULFUL

Is love a movement of time and thought?

WE have been talking over the question of fear and whether after hearing it, after hearing our conversation together over this weight of fear, if one is at all free of it. Or one has merely heard it, saw the reason of it, the sanity of it and cannot do anything about it, and then just drift along. I wonder what one actually has done, each one of us with regard to that question of fear, and the identification of oneself with one's friend, family, furniture, house, country, ideas and so on. Whether after these four talks one has actually ended all identification and therefore there is a great deal of freedom, not relative, but freedom. And when one asks these questions of oneselves, whether we ask superficially, intellectually or as you would ask a question that affects you most profoundly, most seriously.

And after asking these questions of oneselves, and if we are at all serious, getting the house in order — our house, which is you. And when we put things in order in our house we are free, we have more energy. It is only when there is disorder that we waste energy. And order implies that one has understood deeply what are the movements of disorder in oneself, why we live, perhaps even in our own rooms, in such disorder. Or having in one's house order, in oneself there is such abiding deep disorder, uncertainty, why such human beings live in this disorder, from the moment they are born until they die — why? Why do we tolerate to live in such conditions? I wonder if you have asked yourself these questions. And if you have — perhaps some of you have — and discovering that one is in disorder, mechanically sets about to put everything in oneself in order. Thereby, one cultivates discipline, follow a pattern, pattern laid down after two thousand years, or ten thousand years, or the patterns laid down by some guru, some priest, some specialist in so-called spirituality.

Or try to escape from this abiding, endless, seemingly endless disorder, try to identify oneself with something that is supremely order, which is cosmos, the heavens, the whole universe. I wonder what you, looking at yourself in the mirror which tells you exactly what is, I wonder what you do about this disorder? Is one aware that one lives in disorder? Is one aware that one lives in contradiction? This constant conflict between 'what is' and 'what should be'.

If one asks oneself these questions, are you listening for an answer from yourself? Or are you listening for an answer from somebody else? I am afraid most of us are inclined to find order, not understanding disorder, investigating what is order we easily accept some specialist, some authority, some priest, some guru who will tell us what is order. So our minds are becoming more and more mechanical because when we accept a pattern of order, like a soldier drilled day after day, month after month, drilled — the drums beating out his brains. So we follow, accept, obey, conform. Is that not conformity, obedience, acceptance the very root of disorder? As we said, please do not accept anything whatsoever the speaker says. And I really mean it. These are the questions you are asking of yourself.

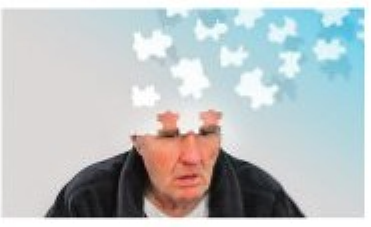
Viagra helps reduce risk of Alzheimer's disease



US researchers have found that impotence pill Viagra may help prevent as well as treat Alzheimer's disease. Sildenafil, approved by the US Food and Drug Adminstration (FDA) for erectile dysfunction (Viagra), is associated with 69 per cent reduced incidence of Alzheimer's disease, according to the findings published in the journal Nature Aging. A team from Cleveland Clinic analysed a database of more than 7 million patients, and used computational methodology to screen and validate over 1,600 FDA-approved drugs as potential therapies for Alzheimer's. The buildup of beta amyloid and tau proteins in the brain leads to amyloid plaques and tau neurofibrillary tangles - two hallmarks of Alzheimer's-related brain changes. -IANS

Wearing mask could lower risk by upto 225 times

Wearing a face mask is better than social distancing at preventing you from catching Covid, a study suggests. Researchers found that donning a covering could lower the risk by upto 225 times, compared to solely relying on a three-metre rule. Masks have been mandated in almost every country in the world at some point in the pandemic but the jury's still out on their efficacy due to contradictory evidence. The latest research found a 90 per cent chance of catching Covid if you stand acrminutes for the risk to be that high if someone was to wear a surgical mask, even if it does not fit 'perfectly' on the face, the report said. —IANS

AUDIENCE IN NO MOOD TO WATCH MY EARLIER IMAGE: RAVICHANDRAN

In conversation with CE, the Crazy Star talks about his upcoming film, Drishya 2, slated to release on Dec 10

A SHARADHAA

A still from Drishya 2

PLAYING a family man and a responsible father of two teenage girls is bigger than playing any other hero, says Ravichandran, who is set to reprise his role as Rajendra Ponnappa in Drishya 2. "We always enjoy watching Superman, Batman, Phantom, but above them all is playing a father," says the Crazy Star, ahead of the film's release on December 10.

Ravichandran sees Drishya 2 as a special film that conveys something for every family. "The extent a father goes to protect his family, his thought process, the fights, and the pain he goes through is what Drishya 2 is all about. It is a neat film that can be jointly watched by the entire family. Having a responsible father at the centre of it is enough for the film to become universal and connect with everyone," he says.

An adaptation of the Malayalam film, Drishyam 2, originally directed by Jeethu Joseph, Drishya 2 is helmed by P Vasu.

Ravichandran feels that the original film was perfect, and there was no need to work on the screenplay. However, he adds that the actors in each of the versions do bring a lot to the table. "We have managed to bring little changes to the overall outlook of the film. Some felt that the first half of the Malayalam version had a serious first half, however, in Drishya 2, we have added a sense of naughtiness to the proceedings, which I felt makes the family even more relatable. Also, the husband-wife chemistry makes it a refreshing watch," says Ravichandran, adding, "As Rajendra Ponappa, I have expressed mostly through my eyes."

While the Malayalam film Drishyam 2 and the Telugu version were out on OTT, Drishya 2 will be releasing in the theatres. "The magic of the silver screen will never fade away. When it comes to watching a film on a small screen, your mind is not fully occupied. There will be a mindset that you have watched the film, but you wouldn't have enjoyed it," he says.

Drishya 2 has an impressive star cast with names like Anant Nag and Prabhu involved in the project. So how was it to have such veterans be part of the film? "I was very stubborn to have Anant Nag in the project. His voice, with a unique accent and the way he speaks, carries a lot of weight. Whom you share screen space with matters a lot, and on that front, Navya Nair has done a good job," says Ravichandran, who also mentions that over the two Drishya films he developed a good rapport with director P Vasu. "The sequel brought us closer. We had a good understanding, which reflects on the screen. It was the case with the rest of the cast as well," he says.

Was there ever a time, Ravichandran, who is a director himself, wanted to helm the Drishya films? "I felt it is better not to wield the megaphone for certain films because I tend to have a technical dominance in my movies, and it does not suit all kinds of subjects. The production house had decided with P Vasu, and he will continue to helm the Drishya series, as long as it exists. The same holds good for the producer, the hero, and the heroine too," says Ravichandran with his characteristic laugh.

Having been part of the Drishya series, are there changes he wishes to make? "The content is the winner. The film mainly works on the screenplay, which cannot be changed, except for small things. Drishya is one film that is enjoyed from the writer's point of view. Whatever Jeethu Joseph has created, he almost comes across as a crime writer now. There is also a wonderful undercurrent of emotions too, which is a highlight of Drishya 2," says Ravichandran.

Ravichandran, who will soon join the sets of Kranti is happy with the transition he is making with his recent films and his upcoming lineup. "The audience is in no mood to watch the earlier image of Ravichandran, which revolved around songs, romantic scenes and the like. They have matured, and prefer not to see me in regular cinema. They are fed up with seeing songs shot in foreign locales, and heroes walking behind the heroines. While the 'old' Ravichandran might come in films I direct, there is no doubt that, as an actor, I am enjoying playing characters like Rajendra Ponaappa and even the titular role of my next directorial, Ravi Bopanna," says Ravichandran.

Recalling his old films, Ravichandran tells us that audiences thought he was best suited to enact playboy characters. "They only highlighted my romance sequences with my heroines. Nobody recognised my acting in films like Annayya and Ramachari. In fact, it is only after my performances in Manikya and Drishya that sections of audience enjoyed my acting and felt I've improved as an actor. I agree that I have come a long way from when I began, and I constantly believe that I can do better. It all depends on the kind of roles my directors decide to see me in," says Ravichandran, who admits that despite stepping into the 60's, he is still the Prema Loka hero. "I'm still young at heart, and the words, 'Lights Camera, Action' hold the same excitement as it first did," says Ravichandran.

> I'm still young at heart, and the words, 'Lights Camera, Action' hold the same excitement as it first did
> Ravichandran, actor

Having been in the limelight for decades together, does the Crazy Star still have the same craze, zeal and enthusiasm that he first had when he stepped in front of the camera as an antagonist in the 1982 film Khadeema Kallaru? "There is only one Crazy Star in the entire world. There are so many actors, who hold the 'Superstar' and other similar tags, but nobody has the guts to call themselves the Crazy Star. The label was something my fans gave me, and for them I am always ready to become crazy," he signs off.

Raj B Shetty

ALLA NAVEENA, RAJ B SHETTY'S FIRST SINGLE

The musical song marks the directorial debut of lyricist Nagarjun Sharma; it will out in Kannada and Tamil

CE FEATURES

AFTER wowing us with his acting and directing in Ondu Motteya Kathe and GAruda Gamana Vrishaba Vahana, Raj B Shetty now make a mark with his first single. Titled Alla Naveena, the song will be out in Kannada and Tamil, and the music video will mark the directorial debut of lyricist Nagarjun Sharma, who is known for writing Hands Up from Avane Srimannarayana.

Atharvaa

Nagarjun Sharma

The peppy song will have Raj B Shetty sharing screen space with newcomer Atharvaa and Spoorthi Udimane. Penned by the director himself, the song will be a comedy-pathos song, which Nagarjun calls a 'Single for singles'. With Anthony Daasan singing both the versions composed by Anand Raja, Muruga Master of the reality show Raja Rani-fame is choreographing the number, which is shot by Vishwas Koundanya. The entire track was shot in a resort in Bengaluru.

The song is to be out on Paramavah Music and Iira music channel on December 20, and the first look poster will be launched on December 10 by Rakshit Shetty and Tamil actor Bobby Simha.

Old Monk rights have been sold to leading Hindi distributors

CE FEATURES

ACTOR-filmmaker Srini is ready with his next film, Old Monk. The romantic comedy-drama has done good pre-business, and the latest report is that Old Monk's outrate rights have been sold to leading Hindi distributors -- Abhijit Enterprises. The company, known for distributing films like Aashiqui, Ghulam, and associated with movies like Kabir Singh, Gully Boy, and Tanhaji, are now venturing into Kannada with Old Monk. The director is looking to release the film in early 2022.

Old Monk also stars Aditi Prabhudeva and marks the Kannada debut of Malayalam actor Sudev Nair, who plays the antagonist. The film also brings in a host of senior actors including S Narayan, Sihi Kahi Chandru, RT Rama, Dingri Nagaraj, and Bengaluru Nagesh.

While the music of Old Monk is scored by Saurabh Vaibhav, Bharath Parashuram has handled the cinematography.

THANDIWE NEWTON TO STAR IN MAGIC MIKE'S LAST DANCE

CE FEATURES

Actor Thandiwe Newton will star opposite Channing Tatum in the upcoming third instalment of Magic Mike. Titled Magic Mike's Last Dance, the film is set to be directed by Steven Soderbergh. The project brings back Reid Carolin, who wrote the first two movies. Plot details are currently not available, but the film is expected to wrap up the trilogy. The role Newton will play remains unclear. Magic Mike is loosely based on Tatum's experiences as an 18-year-old stripper in Tampa, Florida. The 2012 film's success led to the sequel Magic Mike XXL in 2015, without Soderbergh in the director's chair. Tatum later conceived and co-directed Magic Mike Live in Vegas, which expanded internationally with sold-out shows in London, Berlin and Australia. The show recently announced its first North American tour, with stops planned in Nashville and Miami. The live shows inspired the upcoming HBO Max reality competition series Finding Magic Mike, which is set to premiere on December 16.

Vir Das

Vir Das to develop, star in American series Country Eastern

CE FEATURES

VIR Das will write and executive produce a new show for FOX. Titled Country Eastern, the series is a single-cam comedy starring Vir. The show is about a young wealthy man from India who moves to America to restart his life with his family. In an attempt to settle in Memphis, Tennessee, he decides to pursue his passion and become a country singer. The only issue is that he's terrible at it. He's going to have to gain some life experience in the states to have something real to sing about.

Speaking of the series, Vir said, "It's an exciting brand new project that is in the works and I'm happy to announce that the series is now being developed. The writing of the series is currently on. I'm excited to be collaborating with such immensely talented names, each of whom has an envious body of work. It's a unique comedy and I'm looking forward to filming the series soon."

Vir is set to co-write, executive produce the show with Sam Laybourne, with Laybourne also being the showrunner. Andy Samberg, who played the role of Jake Peralta in Brooklyn Nine-Nine, will serve as the executive produce in this series.
